To Investors

Who are seeking an investment that combines both safety and dividend-paying power.

A company incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey and established eight years, with offices in New York and Boston, doing a business that is an absolute monopoly, protected by United States and foreign patents, are offering a limited amount of their stock to New England investors. The stock of this company has never been offered for sale before, but owing to rapidly-increasing business find it desirable to add to their facilities. Write for particulars and learn what we have to offer, AT ONCE, as we have but a limited amount to dispose of. This is no stock-jobbing scheme, but a legitimate business proposition worthy of your attention.

held at Dartmouth last Wednesday evening, Mr. George C. Agry, '05, responded to one of the toasts. Mr.
R. T. Tolman was another member of the freshman class who was present.
—Mr. Arthur K. Lane, a member of the Eliot church quartet, died of typhoid fever at a Boston hospital last Friday after a few weeks' illness.
Mr. Lane was formerly a student at Tufts College and at Harvard, and of late was studying medicine preparatory to entering the profession of a physician. The funeral was held from the home of his uncle, Mr.
Henry M. Fenno, on Clayton street, Malden, last Monday afternoon, at two o'clock, and a number of Newton friends attended. There were many floral tributes including a beautiful design from the Eliot choir. Rev.
James F. Albion officiated and the interment was at Woodlawn.

Death of Harold C. Paine.
The death of Harold C. Paine, aged 22 years, and the circumstances attending it when learned here yesterday, came as a shock to the many friends of the Paine family who formerly made their home on Channing street, Newton.
Mr. Paine was employed as an engraver by the Suffolk engraving and electrotype company at 234 Congress street, and at 1.15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon his duties took him to the third floor of the building. The young man doubtless believed that the elevator on which he had ridden to that floor was still in its place, and it may be that his mind was preoccupied, and he didn't notice that it had been run up to a higher floor.
Whatever the reason was he did not notice that the elevator had moved, and stepped into the elevator well and fell to the basement, fracturing his left hip and dislocating his left ankle and left wrist, besides sustaining a number of internal injuries.
The young man was hurried to the Emergency hospital where he died at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening.
Mr. Paine was betrothed to an Albion young lady. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Paine and his sister, Miss Gertrude L. Paine, all of whom have the deep sympathy of their many Newton friends.
Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Benjamin S. Wetherbee at 138 Charlesbank road, Newton.

Deaconess' Hospital Sale.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

$62,550.00 For Auburndale School House, Including Iron Stairs and Lathing.

Many Matters of Minor Importance—Amendment to Rules Laid Over.

Aldermen Wardwell and Weldon were the only absent members at the regular session of the aldermen last Monday evening.

A communication from the Mayor relative to $500 additional compensation for architects of the new Mason school and the opinion of the City Solicitor thereon were filed.

Communications from the school committee requesting $125.37 additional for conveyance of pupils; for kindergarten accommodations at the Hamilton school; for sewer connection and toilet rooms in the Wade school, and for improving lavatory in the Hyde school were referred respectively to the committees on finance, public property and sewers.

A communication from the public buildings commissioner submitting plans and estimates for the new Ash street school building was filed.

PETITIONS.

A petition of Lowell et al for police protection at Hammond's pond was referred to the police committee after Alderman Saltonstall had urged the necessity for immediate action.

A petition from Judge Bishop et al for a fire alarm box on Beacon street was referred to the fire department committee.

Petitions of the Newton Club et al for the laying out of Curtis road and of Armstrong et al for laying out of Hobart, Monadnock and Wachusett roads were referred to the highway committee.

Petitions of the Telephone Co. for attachments on Otis street, Crescent avenue, Crystal street, Washington street; for locations on Central street, Edinboro and Walker streets; of the Gas Co. for attachments on Dudley street were referred to the street light committee and hearings ordered for Dec. 12th. Petitions of Perry et al for street light on Jerome avenue; of Wiggins et al for lights on Marlboro street and of Leland et al for street lights on Hillside avenue were referred to the same committee.

Auctioneer licenses were granted to John A. Potter, Alfred E. Alvord, and John Flood, the fee for the last being remitted.

Petitions of A. N. N. McNamany for sewer in Washington street was referred to the sewer committee.

Petitions of the Wellsley & Boston Street Railway Co. to double track its road in a portion of Washington street; of the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway Co. to make connections at Lexington street, Walnut street and Washington street were referred to the street railway committee and hearings assigned for Dec. 23rd thereon.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

The following reports were received: CLAIMS: Favorable to $800 for settlement of claim of Walnut Hill Land Co.

HIGHWAYS: Favorable to acceptance of Court street; favorable to widening of Sumner street; favorable to widening of Boylston street and relative to drainage of Pine Ridge road.

PUBLIC PROPERTY: Favorable to $63,000 for new Ash street school house.

RULES: Favorable to proposed amendments relating to committee.

SEWERS: Favorable to sewers in Lakewood road and in Montvale road.

STREET LIGHTS: Favorable to granting Telephone Co. attachments on Temple street, Linwood avenue, Melrose street, Fern street, Washington street, and pole location on Willard street; favorable to granting Gas Co. location on Dudley street.

SNOW ORDINANCE.

The amendment extending the ordinance requiring removal of snow from paved sidewalks, to precinct 2, of Ward 3, was further amended to include that part of Washington street in precinct 1, of Ward 3, and a slight change in phraseology. It was then read twice and passed to be enrolled.

A recess was then taken to allow various committees to meet.

Upon reassembling the finance committee reported favorably upon authorizing $100,000 temporary loan; $75 transfer for carriages for aldermen; an additional $125.37 for conveyance of pupils; an additional $125 for fire alarm box on Beacon street; $500 additional for architects' fees; $100 for the new Mason school; upon petitioning legislature relative to payments to widow of Asst. Chief E. H. Humphrey; granting $275 for salaries and $100 for school incidentals; for erection of new Ash street school at cost of $60,000, and for issue of $60,000 bonds for payment of same. The report was received.

The fire department committee reported favorably upon matter of new fire box in Beacon street, and relative to payment to Mrs. Humphrey.

The license committee reported favorably upon granting licenses to Wm. Comeau for 3 pool tables; Thos. W. White to transfer druggist license to 301 Elliot street; Geo. A. Loring, druggist license; Wm. B. Blakemore, auctioneer; Mullen & Adams, common victualler, 316 Centre street; Mary Murray, intelligence office; Max Spinklesky, junk; John T. Roche, wagon; J. W. Kelly, wagon; Garmon & Feeney, wagon; Provanoglo Gobarri, wagon, and the report was accepted and the licenses granted.

ORDERS.

Orders relative to widow of Asst. Chief Humphrey: for $125 for fire alarm box; Beacon street; granting $275 for salaries and $100 for school incidentals; authorizing $500 additional; architect's commission on Mason school building; transferring $75 from miscellaneous to carriages for aldermen; for $125.37 additional for conveyance of pupils; authorizing $100, 000 temporary loans; authorizing settlement of Walnut Hill Land Co. claim for $800; for sewers in Lakewood road and Montvale road; granting Telephone Co. attachments on Fern street, Linwood avenue, Temple street, Melrose street and Washington street; granting Telephone Co. location in Willard street; granting Gas Co. location in Dudley street; relative to drainage of Pine Ridge road; and assigning hearings Dec. 12 on laying out of Court street and widening of Sumner street and Boylston street were severally adopted.

ASH STREET SCHOOL.

An order for $60,650 for the erection of a new eight room school on Ash street, Auburndale, was presented from the finance committee. Alderman Brown offered an amendment of $1900 additional to include iron stairs and wire lathing. Mr. Brown said that the last four public buildings erected have this form of construction. It is good business policy as well as for safety that the best and most modern construction should characterize our new buildings.

Alderman Pond said that the limit of $64,000 would include this item and it was unusual to back down.

Alderman Weed said that the public property committee does not feel as strongly as before that this form of construction is essential for safety, but it makes a slow burning building in case of fire and will save property loss.

Alderman Weeks did not believe in recognizing a precedent established by former aldermen when financial conditions might be different.

In recent years heavy expenditures had brought the city to the verge of its debt limit. The Thompsonville school was not thoroughly understood when voted, but deliberate action was had on the Mason school. He believed in giving Auburndale the best the city could afford, but here was a chance to save $2000 without in any way affecting the essentials of the building.

Alderman Brown complained that anything affecting Auburndale was subjected to a fine tooth comb process. Alderman Emsen thought the board should be careful and consider that this building is to last for the future. He believed it unwise to use wooden stairs and lathing.

The amendment was then adopted. Alderman Brown, Emsen, Hubbard, Lowe, Norris, Pond, Pulsifer, Saltonstall, Stickney, Trowbridge, Weed and Pres. Bailey (12) voting aye. Alderman Chesley, Fisher, Hutchinson, Lothrop, Lyman, Mellen and Weeks (7) voting no.

The order as amended was then unanimously adopted and the order authorizing $70,000 of 3 1/2 per cent. twenty year bonds therefor also passed.

AMENDMENT TO RULES.

Alderman Brown submitted the amendment to the rules favored by the committee on rules.

Alderman Weed explained the proposed changes in detail saying that the work of the board is in three general groups—finance—public improvements and franchises. Incidental work like claims, where a question of liability was involved—ordinances, Read Fund and subjects of internal government were of minor importance. The three working committees of seven members each will give each member an opportunity to consider important public matters. The consolidation will cut down the many committee meetings now held, and regular meetings can be held.

The suggestion of a committee on departments is without great advantage. The department committees have heretofore considered nothing but matters of appointment or of finance. The appointments should be considered by special committees and matters of finance can just as well go to the finance committee in the first place as it is practically impossible to separate the questions of desirability and finance.

The auditing committee does hard and conscientious work, but it has no power, and shares responsibility with the Mayor, which is not the intent of the charter.

Alderman Lothrop said he was not in sympathy with leaving out so many committees and favored a committee on departments.

Alderman Fisher thought radical changes should be carefully considered and the matter was thereupon tabled until Dec. 23rd.

And at 11.19 the committee adjourned.

The No License Vote.

To the Editor:

Once a year the opportunity is given us to register our determination that Newton shall be a city of exceptional excellence.

Much of what makes it so attractive now depends upon the exclusion of the saloon.

Let that baleful influence come in and Newton will begin to decline.

It is important then that all who care for the prosperity and the reputation of our city should go to the trouble of voting.

It is not enough to be in favor of no license and to have a hope that as there always has been a majority against the saloon so there will be this year. That is not enough. Men ought to get to the polls before they go to business in the morning or they should come out in season to vote before the polls close. Every man who can vote and yet neglects to do so should feel that he has exposed this beautiful city to peril.

No. 26888.

ORDERED,

That meetings of the voters of this City, qualified therefor, are hereby called on Tuesday, the tenth day of December, A. D. 1901, for the election of a Mayor, fourteen Aldermen and five members of the School Committee, for their respective terms commencing on the second Monday in January, 1902. Said Aldermen to be selected as follows: Seven Aldermen at large, being one from each Ward, to serve for two years; seven Aldermen by Wards, being one from each Ward elected by and from the voters therein to serve for one year. Said School Committee to be selected as follows: One from Ward One, one from Ward Two, one from Ward Three, one from Ward Six, and one from Ward Seven, each to serve three years.

Also to give in their ballots, Yes or No in answer to the questions:

1st. Shall the Act of the General Court, Chapter 344 of 1899 as amended by Chapter 357 of 1900, being an Act to make eight hours a day's work for City and Town employees, be accepted?

2nd. Shall the Act of the General Court, Chapter 332 of 1901 making three years the term of office of the City Clerk be accepted?

3rd. Shall licenses be granted for the sale of intoxicating liquors in this City? The Acts above referred to are as follows:

CHAPTER 344.

An Act to make eight hours a day's work for City and Town employees.

SECTION 1. Eight hours shall constitute a day's work for all laborers, workmen and mechanics now employed, or who may hereafter be employed, by or on behalf of any city or town in this Commonwealth.

SECTION 2. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

SECTION 3. This act shall not take effect in any city or town until accepted by a majority of the voters voting thereon at an annual election. Such vote shall be taken by ballot. When so accepted this act shall take effect from the date of such acceptance. Approved May 9, 1900.

CHAPTER 357.

An Act relative to the hours of labor for City and Town Employees.

SECTION 1. In the year nineteen hundred and one and every third year thereafter there shall be elected by the voters in every city qualified to elect a city clerk in December, a city clerk, to hold his office for three years from the beginning of the next municipal year.

CHAPTER 332.

An Act relative to the terms of office of City Clerks.

SECTION 1. In the year nineteen hundred and one and every third year thereafter there shall be elected by the voters in every city qualified to elect a city clerk in December, a city clerk, to hold his office for three years from the beginning of the next municipal year.

SECTION 2. In the year nineteen hundred and two and every third year thereafter, in every city not required to elect or appoint a city clerk in December, there shall be elected or appointed as required by the charters of their respective cities, a city clerk, to hold his office for three years from the day of his election or appointment.

SECTION 3. Every such clerk shall hold his office until the election or appointment and qualification of his successor, unless sooner removed by due process of law.

SECTION 4. When a vacancy shall occur in the office of city clerk the person elected or appointed to fill the vacancy shall hold the office until the end of the unexpired term of the person last holding the office.

SECTION 5. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

SECTION 6. This act shall be submitted to the voters of every city at the next annual municipal election, and upon its acceptance by a majority of the voters voting thereon in any city shall take effect in that city. Approved May 1, 1901.

All of the above officers and the questions of accepting the acts of the General Court and of licensing the sale of intoxicating liquors are to be voted for on one ballot except that the votes for School Committee by women will be by a separate ballot.

The polls will be opened at six o'clock in the forenoon, and closed at twelve minutes past four o'clock in the afternoon.

Read and Adopted,

PUBLIC SPIRIT.

Scathing Condemnation of Public Parasites.

Sermon Delivered By Rev. J. C. Jaynes.

"The annual Thanksgiving proclamation of our chief executive closes with these words:

"God save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

But God cannot save this Commonwealth or any other unless the citizens join hands and help Him.

God furnishes the raw material. Men and women are needed to fashion it into the finished product. God writes the rules at the head of the page. You and I must learn to read and apply them. The laws of steam existed from the beginning, but Omnipotence had to wait for Watt and Stephenson before He could make a steam engine. For ages the river flowed idly on between its banks. There was lumber in the forests and iron in the heart of the mountain and great unchiseled stones asleep upon its flanks. But one day there came a man with an idea burning in his brain and straightway the lumber and the iron and the stone answered his summons, and the walls of a mill reared themselves at the river side and the buckets of great wheels passed the river's strength on to the waiting stone and the golden grain of harvests was translated into flour, fine and white as snow. A man was needed to co-ordinate God's forces and harness them to the making of a loaf of bread.

So also we may suppose that the ideals of a perfect society have always existed as ideals. The principles of good government were imbedded, so to speak, in the original structure of the universe. But they lay there like undiscovered gold, until human experience found them and framed them into the social organization. It is self evident that a community cannot exist without people and I think it can be said with all reverence that even the powers of Heaven cannot create or maintain the prosperity of a community without the co-operation of the men and women who compose it. While we therefore pray God to save the Commonwealth, we are to remember that He can answer our prayer only through our own civic devotion and vigilance.

The word commonwealth means the common good, the common happiness. The word community means the readiness of all to serve the welfare of all. When two people agree to live together, society is formed. Then and there is created a certain union of interests in which each has a share and to the preservation of which each stands committed and pledged. The two may be multiplied by a million, yet there is no essential change in the relationship which the individual bears to the whole body. He has flung his interests into the common heap. He has joined society. He has become a member of the community. He now possesses not only his own but something of the others; and the others have a share in what is his. He must not stand by ready to snatch his own and run away when danger threatens, but he is required by the compact to join hands with the others and be ready to guard the common property and to maintain the common welfare.

This watchfulness of the general good, this devotion to the common interests, this readiness to take hold and work for the benefit of all is what we call public spirit.

It is the name of the first and the last essential of good citizenship. It is the vital atmosphere of the truest community life. It is the custodian of the treasures of the past, the safeguard of the values of the present. It is the holder of the keys that unlock the worth of the future.

The community in which public spirit is dead is quite ready for immediate burial. It may possess the arts of civilization, the latest machinery of administrative affairs, and men and women of excellent character, but if there be no zeal, no lively interest in matters that concern the public good, no willingness to dedicate some nerve and thought to the well being of the common life, it is inviting the dry rot of indifference and walking the way of civic death.

The community in which public spirit is weak or non-existent is at the mercy of all those corruptive influences which wake up when right public sentiment goes to sleep. The power which fraud respects and corruption fears is not the printed forms of law but the unwritten will of a righteous people; and when that is alive, when that is swift and certain the salvation of a commonwealth be it great or small is reasonably sure.

When one surveys the people composing a community, using public spirit as a measuring line, he finds them falling into various classes, ranging all the way from vigorous service to practical worthlessness.

There is one class of people who always manage to keep themselves before the public eye. They find a way to the platform and to the columns of the daily press. It is their habit to push to the front and to make their activity conspicuous. They love publicity. They like to be busy in the crowded thoroughfares of life, and are usually found on the edge of public affairs, sometimes very earnestly, sometimes very fustily and clamorously anxious about the welfare of the community. Such people are usually called the public characters of a town.

It is obviously unfair to condemn them without discrimination. Some of them are evangelists of good and brave fighters on the right side. They are agitators and noise-makers when agitation and noise are the things most needed. There would have been some sad oversights in history and some fatal lapses of memory if these public characters had not ordained themselves to preach from the house tops.

But experience tells us that oftener than otherwise, these officious ubiquitous people, these people who are so noisily anxious about the rights of the dear public are not moved very deeply by the genuine public spirit. Too often the real motive is vanity, a desire to be seen of men, a small ambition seeking satisfaction in popular attention and a little official rank, and this motive glossed over with a film of emotion for public causes is often mistaken by them for public spirit. The real thing they do not understand and do not entertain. The uppermost idea is the part they are to play and not the ultimate good to be accomplished. And so unintentionally, perhaps, they use the public welfare merely as a back ground for the expression of themselves.

Then there is another class who are not troubled by these venial sins of vanity, but play the role of public spirit for lower and baser objects. They look upon public affairs as their opportunity for gratifying their cupidity or attaining some personal advantage. They have not the slightest desire to benefit the people at large, or to improve the community or to safeguard the common privileges. They pose as public spirited men solely for the purpose of using the power it gives for the furtherance of their own private interests. The Tammany King is one of these public spirited citizens. He has always been professedly interested in public affairs. And so is the little politician in a New England village, who talks about public welfare on the platform while deep down in his heart he is planning for his own advantage.

There is no word in the lexicon strong enough to fit such duplicity. It has not even the excuse of self deception. The vain man may delude himself into believing that he is a public benefactor, but the man who uses public confidence to win his own private ends knows perfectly well that he is false and dishonest. There are other titles for this kind of citizenship but public spirit is not one of them.

We come to another class. They are people usually well to do, intelligent, often wealthy and elegant members of society. But they are public parasites. They enjoy the privileges of the social organization, they use the public benefits, they claim the protection of government and then do nothing in return except what is legally exacted from them. They have no public spirit at all. They are touched by no sense of obligation to the common life, are moved by no feeling of responsibility for the administration of public affairs. They attend to their own business. They build their beautiful homes and rear their families. They take what they please of the advantages of the work which other men and women have done to give them a decent community in which to live, but when they are asked to sacrifice something of amusement or time or personal ease to maintain these things, they beg to be excused. Are the schools out of order? "It does not concern us," they say. "We send our children to the private schools." Is the public square unbecomingly neglected? "It does not concern us. We do not live there and we seldom see it." Is public service called for, service without money and without price and frequently with criticism and burdensome responsibility? Are good men needed there? "It does not concern us. We have no taste for politics. Let those who like it engage in it. Is good government in jeopardy? Are the tax-payers clamoring at the gates of office? And can the danger be averted by a solid front of opposition at the ballot box? "It does not concern us. The danger is the fiction of alarmists. Our community is too respectable; too wise to commit a political folly. Why then trouble ourselves to do the unnecessary thing? Why rob ourselves of precious time or comfortable ease to enlarge a majority already assured for the right cause?"

Now this attitude which is by no means exaggerated or unfamiliar, is virtually the deliberate surrender of the duties and responsibilities of good citizenship. It is an indifference which ought to carry with it more censure and more disgrace than it usually does. It is disloyalty. It is rebellion. It is repudiation of honest debts. It is a mean and very despicable kind of elegant selfishness. And they who are ruled by it are not useful citizens anywhere. They belong to the dangerous classes. For it is their indifference that makes effective the power of rascals and schemers. It is their withdrawal from public affairs that makes room for incompetency and self seeking. When the good man lets go the bad man takes hold. Public parasites? Yes. Dangerous people? Yes. But withal so honest and intelligent and influential that the true lover of man prays that the shell of their indifference may be broken and that they may come forth from their comfortable retirement and join with all public spirited citizens in the work that always is to be done.

The public spirited citizen. He belongs to the final group, the group of men and women who think on public matters and act in public matters with might and conscience for the public good. They may be prominent and wealthy and known to everybody, or they may be humble, inconspicuous citizens. They may differ widely in what is called social rank, but in the duties of citizenship they work together and stand on the same level.

They first are sensitive enough to feel the pressure of obligation. They have their private business, their homes, their families. They carry on their personal pursuits, they educate their children, protected by institutions and furnished with public privileges which were created and established by the thought and devotion of others long before. Others have labored. They are enjoying the fruits of that labor. There is the obligation and they are appreciative enough to understand and acknowledge it. And with that obligation, they realize that there comes a responsibility. Society is made up of individuals, and society thrives only when the individuals are in healthy and beneficial activity. The members of every community are therefore bound up together, interlocked by the relationship of common interest. The hurt of one, the hurt of all. The advantage of one, the benefit of the whole body.

The man of public spirit recognizes this interdependence. He sees that as a unit of the social organism he is responsible to all the other units—responsible not only for his acts but also for their influence and effects. He cannot be independent. He cannot stand aloof. He cannot shut himself up in his castle and live his life alone. The responsibility breaks down the castle door and pursues him into the innermost recesses of his vision. He accepts the responsibility like a man. He believes that if the poor and unfortunate are discriminated against in favor of the rich and prosperous, he in part is to blame. He is responsible to the whole community and not merely to the broadcloth portion of it. He believes that if ideals are low and public morals bad, a share of the burden of disgrace comes to his own threshold, because he is a responsible citizen. And so he is concerned, not only because it is expected of him, but because he wishes to promote the well being of society.

First obligation, then responsibility, then service. That is the real test of public spirit. And the ways of service? Their name is legion. The man who is really interested in the public welfare will find enough to do. The public service includes all work that looks toward order and justice, all work that embraces the means of promoting the intelligence and comfort, the morality and religion of the people. Everywhere are open paths that invite the earnest man or woman. Not all can hold official positions. But citizenship is an office in itself, and every citizen is constituted an officer to secure and protect the health, the safety and the happiness of the community. In this light every public spirited citizen regards himself. He is not a noisemaker. He is not a chronic faultfinder. He is not a bigoted partisan. He is not a discouraged pessimist. He is hopeful, determined, fearless, standing for the best measures, voting for the best man, working for the best things. And when the prospect is dark with doubt, and evil works its will, he does not lose heart, but without bells or trumpets he calls his neighbors to him and says: "Let us right this wrong." And it is done. Not at once perhaps, but finally.

A little lump of humanity, leavened with righteousness and pluck, in time under God's laws leavens the whole mass. Civic health can win a majority at last by contagion. In the old Bible story we read that ten righteous men might have preserved Sodom from the fiery storm of God. Ten public spirited men can save any community, not because their righteousness makes them divine favorites, but because their zeal and determination and high example kindle the fires of courage in timid hearts every where and create at last an army strong enough to put wrong upon the scaffold and right upon the throne.

"Thy kingdom come" is the family prayer. The kingdom of Heaven! The kingdom of God! It is not a city in the clouds with jasper walls and sapphire gates and streets of gold, where music floats upon the fragrant breeze and white robed angels plume their wings in celestial light. It is the village, the town, the city down here in Massachusetts, where the public spirit of righteous citizens is so strong and regnant, that peace is within its walls, justice and honor in its government, prosperity in its character and intelligence, freedom, character and happiness the common possession of all. And when that kingdom embraces the state, the prayer of this Thanksgiving proclamation will be answered and the Commonwealth will be saved.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

Tremont Theatre—Augustus Thomas' dramatic masterpiece, "Arizona," after another record-breaking run of four months in New York, is again at the Tremont Theatre. This powerful play, as its name implies, has its scenes, characters and incidents located in the picturesque Southwestern States. The people comprise sturdy ranchmen and cowboys, the brisk, alert woman of the pioneer generation, and their dainty, graceful, yet strong and self-reliant daughters, officers and soldiers, Mexicans and Chinese—fair samples of the heterogeneous community which Mr. Thomas has chosen to utilize in the way of literary material. The contrasts are as full of bright color as the changing combinations of a kaleidoscope. It is fairly pulsing with fresh, vigorous, active life of the young West. It has a love story as tender and almost as tragic as that of "Romeo and Juliet," and it has a relief work of humor as ripe and unctuous as that in which Mr. Thomas has previously shown us in "Alabama" and "In Mizouza." That "Arizona" will be richly staged and excellently well acted is guaranteed. The principal actors and actresses engaged for the production are Miss Olive May, J. W. Cope, Dustin Farnum, Miss Grace Thorne, Frazier Coulter, Miss Agnes Muir, Wm. O. Hazeltine, Miss Alice Chandler, William Haworth, Miss Eleanor Wilton, George O'Donnell, Stanley Murphy, Frank Campani and Charles Welch.

Boston Museum—"Sky Farm" at the Boston Museum continues to be one of the great successes of the present theatrical season for any sort of play. It is entering its tenth week of phenomenal record at this theatre and bids fair to reach figures which will not easily be reached again in Boston. This result is solely a reward of merit for as thousands now well know "Sky Farm" is splendidly constructed, tells its story logically and picturesquely, is admirably acted by Mr. Charles Frohman's company of talented players, and as a production, that is, considered from the standpoint of stage dressing in the way of costume and in scenic effects, it has never been approached by any play of its kind. The concluding performances of "Sky Farm" are fixed upon so it would be well for those who want to enjoy themselves thoroughly several hours to make as early a visit to the Boston Museum as possible.

Death of John Cummings.

John Cummings, for more than 20 years janitor of the High school, which position he had occupied up to about 3 years ago, dropped dead about 2 last Saturday after noon while at work on vacant land off Jefferson street, Newton, aged 70 years.

His services for the school department will be remembered by graduates of the High school, who knew him as both faithful and untiring in his efforts to perform those duties that made up his daily work. Recently he was employed by the health department and was engaged in that work at the time of his death.

He lived with his daughter on Lowell avenue, Newtonville. High mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock Monday morning at the Church of Our Lady on Washington street, by Rev. Fr. Kelly. Rev. Fr. Keating of Brookline and Rev. Fr. O'Rourke of Braintree, nephews of the departed, occupied seats within the sanctuary. Many relatives and friends were present.

The interment was at St. Joseph's cemetery, West Roxbury.

GIRL WOMEN.

The general standard of measurement for womanhood is "grown-up-ness." When a girl is emancipated from school and arrives at the dignity of trailing skirts and elaborate hair dressing she is looked upon as a young woman. But nature knows nothing of such standards. When the womanly function is established in a girl, womanhood is attained according to her standards, and there is need of womanly care and caution. It is girlish ignorance or neglect at this critical time which often results in long years of after misery.

Mothers who perceive the evidences of functional derangement in young girls should promptly have them begin the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, tranquilizes the nerves and tones up the whole system.

"My troubles started during my girlhood," writes Miss Flora I. Greer, of 107 Howe Street, Akron, O. "but did not prove serious until 1893. From that time I did not see a well day, suffered at every monthly period with terrible headache, irritation of the spine and pains in my heels. I had soreness through my hips and ovaries all the time and constant backache. One doctor would tell me one thing and another would say something altogether different, but they only relieved me. I then wrote you and followed your advice. I took five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, four of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and five vials of 'Pelle's.' Have not had a single symptom of my trouble so far. Can sleep good, work hard, and eat solid and substantial food without distress."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the sluggish liver.

THE REAL ISSUE.

The city election on next Tuesday is of the utmost importance to the future well being of Newton, and the real issues are very much befogged.

Mr. Baker, the Democratic candidate for Mayor, agitates the matters of high taxes, municipal extravagance and other questions of minor importance.

Mr. Weeks stands for a conservative administration on lines broad enough to ensure the future well being of the city, and thoroughly believes in maintaining our present high standard of work in schools, streets and other departments.

Mr. Bailey has no policy distinct from that of the Republican candidate, except in desiring the office as a reward for aldermanic service.

In point of character and ability there is absolutely no question that Alderman Weeks is easily the leader of the three candidates, and if the independent candidacy of Mr. Bailey was eliminated there would be no doubt as to his overwhelming election.

It is only the dog-in-the-manger attitude of Mr. Bailey that causes uncertainty over the result, and renders possible the election of Mr. Baker.

The issue may thus be said to narrow down to a contest between Mr. Weeks and Mr. Baker, every vote for Mr. Bailey being a half vote for Mr. Baker.

Mr. Baker's position, with nothing to lose and everything to gain, is undoubtedly responsible for the recklessness of his statements during the present campaign, and although we have heretofore pointed out the reasons for the present high tax it may be well to remind our readers as to the exact facts of the matter.

In making the tax rate, the assessors deduct from the gross amount of the tax levy, the figures certified by the city treasurer as available for the purpose. This amount usually ranges from $50,000 to $60,000. In 1900 the treasurer was induced by the mayor to anticipate the income of the city and to certify the large sum of $135,000 to the assessors, thus reducing the tax rate to $15.20. Last year, however, the treasurer's certification, naturally fell to $20,000, and while the city expenses increased but very little, the tax rate rose to $16.80. This indicates that the reasons for the increase lay in the treasurer's certificate. For 1902, as the budget has been materially reduced, and there is every reason to expect that the treasurer will certify the usual amount to the assessors, it is a safe prediction that the rate will fall at least eighty cents. This will be the case wherever is elected.

Capatin Weeks' letter of acceptance of the nomination for mayor is the best answer that can be made to the claims of extravagance made by Mr. Baker, and we commend its careful perusal by our readers.

We advocate the election of Mr. Weeks not only on the grounds of his exceptional fitness for the office, but also on the effect his election or defeat will have on the future. The recognition of Captain Weeks' ability will undoubtedly inspire other good men with enough public spirit to enter the city's service, while his defeat will be a sad blow to the cause of good government.

This we take it is the real issue of the election.

MR. WEEKS.

In Alderman Weeks, the Republican party presents an ideal candidate for mayor. One who will bring honor and dignity to the office as well as executive ability of the highest order.

His service in the board of aldermen marks him as a man pre-eminently fitted for executive work in municipal affairs, and his ability in business and financial circles will be of value to the city.

Newton has always been fortunate in its choice of chief magistrates. What other city can show such a line of mayors in the last decade as Mr. Hibbard, Mr. Fenno, Mr. Bothfield, Mr. Cobb, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Pickard. In this list Captain Weeks is qualified to stand without fear or favor, and the voters of this city should make it their business next Tuesday to place him there by an emphatic vote.

NO LICENSE.

The municipal election held this week indicate a large falling off in the vote on the license question in this state.

Friends of no license should urge every one to vote on this question next Tuesday, and thereby continue a policy which is one of the attractive features of this city as a place of residence.

Vote no from principles of morality if you can, otherwise vote no from principles of expediency and common sense.

Attention is called to the clear words of Rev. Mr. Jaynes in another column, upon public spirit. We hope that they will make a deep impression on the minds of the voters of the city; where it is estimated that over 1200 will neglect their civic duties next Tuesday.

City Hall Notes.

The mortality for November is but 124 per 1000 and the list of infectious diseases is also low. Three cases of diphtheria, and 5 cases of scarlet fever being on hand Dec. 1st. There is no smallpox in the city.

City Hall pull has been located at last and properly labelled—on the corridor door.

Only routine business was transacted at the board of health meeting, Monday evening.

The City Clerk is busy supervising the printing of the official ballot.

Dr. Gallagher has withdrawn as a candidate for the school committee in Ward One.

The ballot commission, consisting of the board of registrars of voters and the city solicitor heard the protest of Wm. H. Baker to the use of the name "Citizen" by the Republican candidate for mayor, last Monday afternoon. Mr. Baker was represented by Mr. Chas. O. Engstrom and Capt. Weeks by Mr. Chas. E. Hatfield. The protest covered an alleged mutilation of the nomination paper; its filing in two parts and the fact that the title "Citizen" had been pre-empted by the Baker papers previously filed. After hearing the evidence the board dismissed the protest.

City Treasurer Ranlett opened 15 bids for the $85,000 bonds of the city, yesterday. They were awarded to W. H. Allen & Co. on a basis of less than 3 1/2 per cent.

Police Paragraphs.

John Fells, colored, aged 34, was arrested in Lakewood, N. J., Monday by Chief Tarbox and Inspector Fletcher. Tuesday he was brought to this city and tried before Judge Kennedy. The charge against Fells, who was formerly a well known hack driver in Newtonville, was that in January 1898, he obtained from Mrs. Laura E. Hawley of Newtonville, three carriages. These, it is alleged, he sold and instead of returning the money ($150) left the state. Mrs. Hawley valued her carriages at $400. Fells pleaded not guilty and his case was continued until Dec. 11.

Letter to Mayor Pickard.

Dear Sir: H. M. Hooker & Co., Coperstown, N. Y., have sold Devoe paint for 42 years. D. T. McGown, of that firm built a house in '85 and painted Devoe, of course. The paint lasted ten years.

A year or two after, a neighbor built a house, and painted it lead and oil. The neighbor's house was repaired twice in the same time.

This looks as if the neighbor's house was painted three times in eight or nine years, and McGown's once in ten years. We are not quite sure we tell the tale as it comes to us. It is enough to say that Devoe lead and zinc lasts twice as long as lead and oil.

Yours truly,
F. W. Devoe & Co.

Glee Club Concert.

Those who have heard the Brown University Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs will need no urging to attend their concert at Auburndale next Tuesday evening.

The Rollicking songs of the Glee Club, 19 men, and the selections by the Banjo Club, 12 men, and the Mandolin Club, 13 men, together with humorous readings by Walter Barron Hastings Currier, will assure a good time for all who attend. See adv.

Gulzot's Father.

Gulzot lived through the most eventful periods of modern France. He was born in 1787 amid the mutterings of the revolution. Gulzot's parents were married by a proscribed Protestant pastor, and his birth was never legally registered. His father, who was an advocate, used his talent for public speaking in the interests of the persecuted Protestants and became a marked man. After living for several weeks in danger of his life he was at last arrested, unwillingly enough, by a gendarme who knew and respected him.

"Shall I let you escape?" said the man.

"Are you married?" replied M. Gulzot.

"Yes. I have two children."

"And so have I," replied the prisoner, "but you would have to pay for me. Let us go on."

They went on, and M. Gulzot died on the scaffold a few days later. At this time Francois, the future statesman, who was the elder of the two children, was six and a half years old and always preserved the recollection of going to see his father in prison, or what was euphemistically called the house of justice.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Blue Predominant.

He was from the country and stood helplessly before the haughty young lady clerk of the downtown store.

"What do you want, please?" she demanded icily.

He gulped down his embarrassment, for he was hopelessly young and shy and awkward, and she was a most superior looking creature.

"I want twelve yards of blue predominant," he finally said.

"What?" demanded the startled clerk.

"Twelve yards of blue predominant," he stammered again.

"I'm sure I don't know what you mean," said the clerk. Then, womanly kindness and intuition getting the better of her hauteur, she said, "Tell me just what it was your mother or your sister told you to bring."

He gave a sigh of relief and said: "They wanted some wash goods for my little sister's dress. They said they were not so particular as to quality and color, just so I got blue predominant. Can't I get it here?"—Memphis Scimitar.

Not In Order.

In a certain Lanarkshire village a meeting was called to consider the advisability of erecting a bridge over a creek which had been heretofore crossed by means of stepping stones.

The schoolmaster, who presided over the meeting, warmly advocated the erection of a bridge in an eloquent speech, when a local worthy, who was something of a character and noted for his outspokenness, got up and interrupted:

"Hoot, toot, schulemaster, you're fair halverin', mon! Wha wad gang an' put a brig ower alean a wee bit creek as ye?"

"Losh, mon, I cud cross it wi' a stamin' jump!"

"Order, order!" exclaimed the chairman angrily. "You are clearly out of order."

"I ken I'm out o' order," rejoined the interrupter amid the laughter of the audience. "If I was in order, I cud jump as faur again!"—London Answers.

Very Tired.

It has remained for a little girl to nearly, if not quite, equal a famous witicism of Leigh Hunt. Of course she spoke in childish innocence, where the English essayist and wit used his ripened intellect.

Hunt, in describing an exceedingly warm day, it will be remembered, spoke of it as one which tempted him to strip off his flesh and sit in his bones.

The little girl had been romping and running all day. Toward nightfall her father met her. "Are you not very tired, little one?" he asked.

"Oh, not so very tired, papa," she replied. Then in a burst of confidence she whispered, "Only I do feel as though I'd like to take my legs off and carry them awhile."

A Long Sleep.

Dr. Socca, an English physician, reported the case of a young girl of seventeen taken with syncope after a cold "rub" who slept for seven months in the hospital to which she was admitted. When she was aroused from sleep, she responded drowsily to questions put and fell asleep again. At the end of seven months she died of pneumonia, having slept herself out of life. Sometimes she was fed in her sleep and at other times while they kept her awake.

Dog and Wolf.

There has been some dispute as to the descent of the dog—whether it is an improved progeny of the wolf or a distinct variety. That it is a different species is proved by the fact that the dog and the wolf will mate and produce offspring. Nevertheless it is probable that the dog is merely descended from the same original stock with the wolf.

Grand Army Carnival.

It is ten years since Charles Ward Post held the great carnival in Elliot hall. The veterans feel that it is proper for them to come before the people of Newton once more, asking their cooperation in the conduct of a similar enterprise, to be held early in February next at Temple hall, Newtonville.

As the veterans are already well advanced in years this is doubtless the last time anything of this kind will be attempted in their behalf. They feel deeply grateful to the people of Newton, and especially to the ladies, for the cordial support given them in their two previous fairs, and feel confident that they will respond to the last call with the same cordiality as before.

The fair is to be held for the benefit of the Post and of all needy and worthy veterans, or those dependent upon them, found within our borders. Within the past fifteen years the Post has thus distributed over $6,000. In every ward of the city a relief committee is constantly on the outlook for needy ones. The relief is given very carefully and consists generally of groceries or other family supplies. The payment of doctors' bills, comforts for the sick, or of funeral expenses. No widow or orphan of a veteran is allowed to suffer if the Post Relief knows of the case.

It is well known that the ranks of the Union Army were composed largely of men of moderate means, and especially of young men, many of whom were about to enter upon the most promising fields of commercial, professional or mechanical life. At the call of their country they freely gave up all their plans and opportunities to protect and preserve their government of the people, and returned from this service, bearing upon their bodies, many of them, the marks, of the bullets and bayonets of those who sought to destroy our nationality. Carrying in their veins the germs of future disease and disability; their opportunities for success in life gone forever, and the whole current of their lives turned into unsuccessful, instead of what otherwise would have been successful, channels—a great many of these men have been able for the past thirty-five years to support themselves and families moderately well, but have not been able to lay aside much for future needs. As old age comes upon them they can no longer earn, they find themselves in want.

The ties which bind veterans together are very strong and the members of Charles Ward Post will share their last cent with their needy comrades.

Then again, money is needed for the soldiers lot in the Newton cemetery. This lot has nothing whatever to indicate its character, and here lie buried quite a number of worthy veterans with no stones to mark their graves. The Post is anxious to put this lot in a condition more worthy of the purposes for which it was intended.

Further announcements, in regard to committees, methods of working, and other matters connected with the carnival, will be made from time to time.

Per order of the Committee.

Charity Entertainment at Auburndale

A pleasing and successful entertainment in aid of the Home for Little Wanderers, was given by a number of its little friends last Saturday afternoon and evening at the home of Mr. Strongman on Woodland road.

The affair took the form of the play, "Little Women," which was produced in two acts, the various characters of Miss Alcott's famous story being taken by children. All acquitted themselves most creditably and both performances were enthusiastically received by large audiences.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Cast—Mrs. March, Gertrude Bourne; Meg, Olive Elizabeth Bourne; Jo, Ruth Strongman; Beth, Carrie Hudson; Amy, Bessie Talbot Strongman; Laurie, Katherine Margaret Fowler; Hannah, Edna Louise Dow; Mr. Lawrence, Charles Hadley Watkins.

The play was produced by the special permission of the Ladies' Home Journal, Miss Alcott's heirs and the publishers, Messrs. Little, Brown & Co.

Death of Ariemus Wiswall.

Artemus Wiswall, for 27 years principal of the grammar school district of Rosindale, died last Sunday morning at the home of his son, George B. Wiswall, Oak Hill, Newton Centre. While visiting his son he was attacked a week ago by a stroke of paralysis and did not regain consciousness.

Born in Oak Hill, Feb. 11, 1825, he received his early education in the public schools of Newton. He chose teaching as a life work, and in preparation attended the normal school at Bridgewater, from which he graduated Dec. 3, 1845.

He had five children, all of whom are living. They are Miss Fannie H. Wiswall, George B. Wiswall, Samuel C. Wiswall, Granville A. Wiswall and Mrs. H. B. Wood.

The funeral was held Tuesday at the South Evangelical church, corner Centre and Mt. Vernon streets, West Roxbury, at 11 o'clock. The burial was in the Newton cemetery.

Woman Suffrage League.

The annual meeting of the Newton non-partisan woman suffrage league was held Tuesday evening at the residence of Mrs. Richard Rowe on Shaw street, West Newton. A large number of members and their guests were present. A business session, followed by an informal reception, made up the evening's program. These officers were elected: Mrs. Richard Rowe, president; Mrs. N. T. Allen and Mrs. J. P. Tolman, vice-presidents; Mrs. M. A. Estabrook, recording secretary; Miss Fannie B. Allen, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Marion Stutson, treasurer; Miss Susan A. Whitting, Mrs. E. C. Burrage, Mrs. G. H. Brown, Mrs. H. H. Burrison, Mrs. John Carter, Mrs. G. W. Eaton, Mrs. J. M. Hastings, Mrs. A. L. Kershaw, Mrs. Anna M. Langley, Mrs. K. A. Mead, Mrs. F. D. Sampson and Mrs. B. L. White.

Children's Theatre—"Little Miss Muffet's Christmas Party" opens at the Children's Theatre, Huntington Chambers, 30 Huntington avenue, Boston, Saturday afternoon, Dec. 7. The performance begins at 2.30 o'clock. It will have a run of four weeks with performances every Tuesday and Thursday at 4 o'clock and Saturdays at 2.30 o'clock. This play is on a much larger scale than the previous one and has a cast of twice as many little people. To accommodate it the stage had to be enlarged and great pains have been taken in its staging. It is given in three acts and a prologue. The play is full of music that was written specially for it and some of the songs are sure to catch in the memory of all—never to be forgotten. Remember the theatre is but a step from the hub of the Hub—Copley Square—and easily reached from all parts of the city.

Book Lover's Bazaar.

An event of much interest to Newtonville people was the Book Lovers' Bazaar, held in the vestry of the Methodist church, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Each booth represented some book and was decorated to correspond with its character. "The Colonial Dames," or domestic "Booth" was in charge of Mrs. A. J. H. "Elizabeth" in her Garden, flowers, plants and candy, Mrs. George M. Bridges; "Five Little Pipers" in red and white, children's table, Mrs. T. A. Hildreth; "The Wayside Inn," cakes and ices, Miss Cora Carter; "Uncle Tom's Cabin" presented the usual attractions of a country store, and was under the direction of Mr. H. W. Stowell; "The Vanity Fair" booth, decorated with oriental trimmings was in charge of Mrs. W. J. Thompson and "The Woman in White," had a fine display of Mexican drawn work, under the direction of Mrs. A. L. Lindsey. In the center of the room was the "As you like it" booth, and here fruit punch and lemonade was served by Miss Elsie Wetherell, assisted by a number of young ladies. Mrs. A. H. Soden was in charge of the supper committee and Wednesday night a turkey supper served and Thursday night a salad supper. The success of the bazaar was largely due to the efforts of the Ladies' Aid Society, of which Mrs. A. H. Soden is president, and the attractive decorations to the excellent taste of Mrs. A. H. Terrell.

Miss Bishop Introduced to Society.

One of the most brilliant of the early December social events was the "at home" given by Mrs. George W. Bishop and Miss Nellie M. Bishop at their home, 489 Walnut street, Newtonville, Monday from 3 to 6 p. m. The affair marked the formal introduction into society of Miss Bishop who proved a most charming debutante. She wore a gown of pastel crepe de chene and carried a spray bouquet of violets.

Mrs. Bishop was gown in black cluny lace.

The interior decorations were particularly elaborate. Cut flowers on a background of green greatly beautified the halls, staircase and parlors, while the dining room was a symphony of Harvard crimson.

Here Mrs. Percy M. Black and Mrs. John A. Fenno presided assisted by Miss Helen Davis, Miss Hattie Burr, Miss Ruby Crosby, Miss Mildred Fenno, Miss Louise Sherman, Miss Maria Thrasher and Miss Mary Coxeter.

Mrs. Bishop and Miss Bishop were the recipients of many congratulations, a large part of which were in the form of floral favors.

Guests were present from the Newtons, Boston, Brookline, Fall River, Quincy, Lynn, Roxbury, Malden and Somerville.

NEWTON CLUB

The entertainment of music and magic by the Durno-Emmet combination last Saturday evening was thoroughly enjoyable. Mr. Emmet is a first class all around entertainer and his trick violin laying, singing, imitations and ventriloquism were excellently done. Durno, the magician did all the standard tricks and many others and completely mystified his audience.

On Monday night, the high scores at duplicate whist were made by W. D. Smith and J. F. Humphrey 4½, F. H. Potter and A. F. Cooke 4½, E. K. Sherman and H. G. Brinckerhoff 2, C. H. Sprague and J. F. Casey and Wm. Hollings and F. E. Bass 1.

A large number attended the first dinner dance of the season given Wednesday evening. The affair was eminently successful.

Following the dinner in the ladies' dining room, which was handsomely decorated as were the tables, the company adjourned to the assembly hall where dancing was enjoyed until 11 by 30 couples.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Cobb, Miss Lucy Cobb, Miss Helen Cobb, Mrs. Pierce, Miss Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Pollett, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lane, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Sortwell, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Chase, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ayer, Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Towle, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bright, Mr. W. L. Sanborn, Mr. E. P. May and others.

Police Paragraphs.

During the height of the storm at about midnight, Tuesday, Patrolman McLaughlin found Timothy J. Donahue, aged 50 years, lying in the snow near the corner of Park and Washington streets. Donahue was intoxicated and also suffered from exposure. He showed the effects of his experience in court Wednesday. He pleaded hard to be sent away and was committed to the state farm at Bridgewater for drunkenness.

Winter caps were donned last Saturday, and felt comfortable too.

Ice or no ice, would-be skaters who visit Crystal Lake, Newton Centre, on Sundays will experience a "frost," the blue law is on again this year.

John F. Kelly, a conductor of the Boston Elevated and Hugh McDonald, a carpenter, were in court last Saturday charged with disturbance. They had been arrested by Patrolmen Lucey and Dearborn. Kelly was found not guilty and discharged and McDonald was found guilty and fined $10.

In the dock at Monday morning's session was Michael C. Byrne, complained of by his wife for assault and by Patrolman Maurice F. Kiley for drunkenness. Michael pleaded guilty. The first case against him was continued for a week and on the second charge he was committed to Bridgewater.

Communication.

To the Editor of the Graphic:—

Dear Sir: Will you kindly favor me with sufficient space to present briefly to the voters of Newton an aspect of duty in regard to voting for Mayor next Tuesday, which has appealed to me, and which may possibly appeal to others.

To repeat a self-evident proposition, recently stated publicly, in voting for a man to direct our municipal affairs, we have no right to be guided solely by personal considerations, for in voting we act not for ourselves alone, but exercise a trust for every other citizen in the community. It is our plain duty to endeavor to elect the man who in our honest judgment will best serve the true interests of the city, and if by the multiplicity of candidates we are in doubt as between any two, or if in our advocacy of the one we personally prefer we realize a danger of electing a man whom a large majority do not think the best fitted for the position, we should follow that practical course which will positively eliminate any such danger. Newton is largely Republican, and while I should be glad to see all party lines obliterated in municipal affairs, until such becomes our custom there certainly is no reason why we should turn down a Republican candidate who possesses in the highest degree the qualities we desire in a chief magistrate, and who has been duly and unanimously nominated in our caucuses.

The Citizen's Caucus performs a good use, and at times a necessary use as a safety valve when the nominations of the regular parties do not appeal to a large number of the citizens as the best that could be made.

Even further, while the public appreciates having the office seek the man, rather than the man the office, no fault can be found with any citizen fitted for the position seeking the highest municipal office, if conditions are such that by his action he does not make possible the election of a man whom the majority do not consider well fitted for the position. "It is a condition and not a theory that confronts us," and each voter should consider the practical effect of his vote. If the issue was solely between Mr. Baker, the Democratic candidate, and either Mr. Weeks or Mr. Bailey, as the Republican candidate, Mr. Baker would be overwhelmingly defeated.

The continuance of both in the field makes possible, if not probable, Mr. Baker's election. The matter should have been settled in caucus. If Mr. Weeks had been defeated there he could not have been induced to run as an independent.

Mr. Bailey, although a Republican, evidently feared to risk the results of a Republican caucus, and in advance of it sought the Citizens' nomination. If the friends of Mr. Weeks are mistaken in their belief that he is better qualified, and if for the sake of argument we admit they are equal in that respect—if we admit they are equal in the number of their personal adherents of friends, Mr. Weeks still has the great advantage of the Republican nomination, which must bring to him more votes than Mr. Bailey can secure.

Under these circumstances it is not the duty or every voter who honestly believes that the Republican candidate is much better qualified for the office than the Democratic, to vote for Mr. Weeks, although personally they may be friendly to Mr. Bailey.

But in any case let each voter do his full duty by voting. Do not from laziness or indifference find cause, when too late, to reproach yourselves for a result which you might not think creditable to the city.

James Richard Carter, West Newton, December 3rd.

Ideas of News.

Justice John M. Harlan of the United States Supreme court, when a practicing lawyer in Louisville, once tried his hand at newspaper work, taking the place of a personal friend, then editor of the Louisville Commercial. The justice got along all right writing editorials, but had ideas as to news that were at variance with those of the city editor.

One of the reporters had written a clever account of a man who had fallen from the fourth story of a building and escaped without serious injury. It made a story of about a column in length. With a proof of the article in his hand the temporary editor came to the city editor and said:

"Mr. Smith, please have this story cut down. I can't see anything in it that makes it worth that space."

"But it's the 'star' story of the day," Mr. Harlan, gasped the astonished news-man. "I think it's a remarkable story and well worth all the space given to it."

"I don't," said Justice Harlan. "If a man had jumped up four stories, it would certainly have been remarkable, but even a fool could fall down four stories, or half a dozen, for that matter."—New York Times.

The Driver's Point of View.

The hotel coach was filled with a crowd of happy, jubilant visitors, and the horses trotted splendidly up the hills. As each eminence was reached and at every turn in the road the crowd would burst forth into cries of wonder and delight at the magnificent scenes which burst upon their view. The mountain jehu alone preserved a dignity and silence which rather awed the others. At length, after a particularly lovely view had been passed, one of the guests at the driver's left hand remarked:

"You don't seem to take much interest in the scenery. No doubt it's an old story to you."

The driver shook his head. "No, that's not it," he answered. "I just don't care." Then he leaned a little closer and whispered: "But I know just how you folks must feel. You all come from a long distance just to see things, and you're bound to enjoy it anyhow so as to get your money's worth and not feel as though you was cheating yourselves. Oh," said this driver in a superior tone, "I don't mind it when I understand how 'tis."—Leslie's Weekly.

The Tugboat Captain.

A tug lay hard by, and the captain added his bit to my sociological nocturne, as I sat in the pilot house and peered out on the water, where red lights and green lights, with many of yellow and white, dripped zigzag fashion down from the wharfs and ships.

"Where do you sleep?" questioned I.

"Why, here," he replied, "in this very pilot house on that nice stuffy bunk you're a-settin' on; on 'sometimes I sleep at that wheel, a-sterin' this boat, sir. Can't be helped, sir. The hours we work would stave in a trained nurse an' send a sentinel to be shot. Why, man, I've seed the time when I've stuck by that wheel twenty grim hours at a stretch. Once it was forty-two hours. And when you read in the paper about towlin' a big propeller clean through a dock or jammin' her into her next door neighbor fer keeps don't you say us tug folks are Johnnie Raws. Just say we've worked and worked till we sleep at the wheel. For that's God's truth, sir."—Atlantic.

Held by Etiquette.

When Dom Pedro, then emperor of Brazil, was entertained at the White House, he had been told by a confused senator that it would be expected that he, the emperor, should be the last of the guests to depart.

The president's wife, however, informed her other guests that they would be expected to follow, not precede, the royal party in leaving the house.

The result was that no one dared to go for fear of a breach of etiquette. But at 3 o'clock in the morning a tired woman pretended illness, and the deadlock was broken.

Great is etiquette, but common sense is sometimes allowable.

A Curious Barometer.

A curious barometer is said to be used by the remnant of the Araucanian race which inhabits the southernmost province of Chile. It consists of the castoff shell of a crab. The dead shell is white in fair, dry weather, but the approach of a moist atmosphere is indicated by the appearance of small red spots. As the moisture in the air increases the shell becomes entirely red and remains so throughout the rainy season.

A Wise Prophet.

"On the whole," said the aged weather prophet, "I have found that the safest course is to predict bad weather." "Why?" asked the neophyte. "Because people are much more ready to forgive you if the prediction does not come true."

Her Niece.

Young Man—I want an engagement ring. Jeweler—Yes, sir; about what size? "I don't know exactly, but she can twist me round her finger, if that is any guide."

Partly Accounted For.

Bizzer—Where does that man Filmer get all his money? Buzzer—Well, I loaned him five dollars two years ago.—Ohio State Journal.

It is claimed that dentistry prolongs life. As has been said of matrimony, it certainly makes it seem longer.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

No man can build character by trying to raise that of others.—Nashville Banner.

Two Circus Feats.

"A great deal of unnecessary sympathy is wasted upon the circus man who stands up proudly in spangled tights and lets another circus man bring down a sledge hammer upon a rock placed upon his head with force enough to break it," says an old circus man. "This is spectacular, but is entirely painless and calls for no great strength or endurance. Upon the cranium of the strong man is put an iron contrivance weighing about 150 pounds and provided with cushions both above and where it rests upon the head. A pretty good sized rock is used, and the hammer is a heavy one, so you can see that the blow that cracks the rock is really a serious one. But most of the force is taken up by the rock and the rest by the iron and cushions, while the only sensation felt by the subject is a gentle tap."

"No more difficult than this is the act whereby the hero of the canvases tent permits a rock to be broken upon his chest with a blow from a sledge hammer. So long as the subject's back is free and does not rest against any solid object the trick is perfectly simple. A little illustration: Take a board up and let it lie freely in your hand and hit it smartly with a hammer. It is difficult to hurt your hand, and the thicker the board the less the sensation. But now put your hand on the table and hit the board. Hurts, doesn't it? Well, it's the same with the rock on the chest."

How Our Ancestors Quarreled.

A study of mediæval rural life is apt to give the impression that the principal part of the life of the people was spent in quarreling or in the commission or prosecution of offenses. Our ancestors certainly were a very litigious and a very disorderly people. The records teem with instances of men and women drawing knives against one another, of breaking into houses, of prosecuting one another for slander. Then we have such entries as these:

"It is ordained by common consent that all the women of the village must refrain their tongues from all slandering." "Thomas, son of Robert Smith, is fined 12 pence because his wife Agnes beat Emma, the wife of Robert, the tailor, and Robert, the tailor, six pence because his wife Emma swore at Agnes, the wife of Thomas." "It is enjoined upon all the tenants of the village that none of them attack any others in word or deed, with clubs or arrows or knives under penalty of paying 40 shillings."

Such entries, frequently occurring, in addition to the innumerable instances of individual attack, slander, petty theft and other immorality seem to show a community of far from perfect virtue.—Lippincott's.

A Good Cough Medicine.

[From the Gazette, Toowoomba, Australia.]

I find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an excellent medicine. I have been suffering from a severe cough for the last two months, and it has effected a cure. I have great pleasure in recommending it.—W. C. Wockner. This is the opinion of one of our oldest and most respected residents, and has been voluntarily given in good faith that others may try the remedy and be benefited as was Mr. Wockner. This remedy is sold by all druggists.

Literary Notes.

Among the many special Book Numbers of the year, that published by The Outlook is notable for several novel features. The Outlook is one of the first, if not the very first, American periodical Holiday book Number; and the present issue is the thirtieth of the kind. In addition to careful notices of a great many of the important art and holiday books of the season, and brief notes about scores of minor publications, this issue contains a collection of brief papers on that most interesting subject "The Best Books for Children," to which contribute such famous writers of children's books, and writers about children's reading, as Mary Mapes Dodge, Kate Douglas Wiggin, Edward Everett Hale, Horace E. Scudder, Frank R. Stockton, Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Tudor Jenks, and others; while the articles are illustrated by portraits of the writers of classical children's books and pictures from recent editions of these books. Other illustrated articles having close relation to the general subject of the number, are Augustine Birrell's "Do We Really Know Dr. Johnson?"; Mr. Hamilton W. Mabie's pleasant talk about a recent visit to "The Land of Lona Doone," with some fresh and charming pictures of the Doone country; and a page appreciation of Edmund Clarence Steadman, accompanying a page-portrait, and indirectly, the second instalment of Dr. Edward Everett Hale's "Memories of a Hundred Years," which touches literature and reminiscence as well as history. A minor feature of real charm will be found in the two-page poems of Maura O'Neill (Mrs. Skrine), which sparkle with Irish fun and Irish character.

Congressman Powers' Opinion of the President's Message.

(From the Boston Post.)

The message is able, forceful and fearless. The President intended to be understood. The great issues before the country are fully and frankly discussed. For every evil referred to a remedy is suggested. The President's views concerning anarchy are extreme, but they accord with public sentiment.

His views concerning the trusts are positive, but at the same time conservative. He would thoroughly regulate them, but not destroy them. He would make the immigration laws more stringent and extend reciprocity with not in conflict with protection. He would foster and promote our merchant marine, and continue our national policy of internal improvements. The message cannot fail to be received with favor by the great industrial interests and the laboring classes of the country.

Samuel L. Powers.

Washington, Dec. 3.

A. J. Snell wanted to attend a party but was afraid to do so on account of pains in his stomach, which he feared would grow worse. He says, "I was telling my troubles to a lady friend, who said: 'Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy will put you in condition for the party.' I bought a bottle and take pleasure in stating that two doses cured me and enabled me to have a good time at the party." Mr. Snell is a resident of Summer Hill, N. Y. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

At The Churches.

A meeting of the choir guild of St. John's church, Newtonville, was held last Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. F. Avery on Crafts street. There was a good number of past and present members among the guests and the evening was spent in a social way.

Rev. Dr. George S. Smart of Manchester, Vt., occupied the pulpit of the Central church, Newtonville, last Sunday morning.

At the Auburndale Congregational church next Sunday the annual offering for the work of the American Missionary Association will be taken.

The meeting of the teachers of the Eliot Sunday school was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. C. D. Kepner, Maple avenue, Newton.

The ladies of the Social Circle will hold a fair at the Newton Methodist church on the evenings of Dec. 11 and 12. The proceeds will be devoted to paying a thank offering of $250 on the church debt.

Change to Change a Quarter.
"How much does it take to change a quarter?" asked the bartender. "Twenty-five cents, eh? Not on your life. It takes seventy cents to do the trick. How many ways do you suppose a quarter dollar can be changed? Just exactly eleven. A folley of limited means may like the jingle of coin in his clothes. In that event you can give him twenty-five pennies or twenty pennies and one nickel. He may like to have a little sprinkling of silver in his clothes, and you can accommodate him with fifteen pennies and a dime or ten pennies, a dime and a nickel.

"If he prefers to have change handy for a beer and a car fare, why, fifteen pennies and two nickels will fix him up, and if he wants a cigar in addition, besides having a little stock of cash in his jeans, give him ten pennies and three nickels. That makes six ways. Now, then, a fellow with a quarter can trade it off for five pennies and two dimes, five pennies and four nickels, two dimes and one nickel, one dime and three nickels or five nickels. Just as he prefers. And to accommodate him in any way that he might select you have to possess twenty-five pennies, two dimes and five nickels—seventy cents in all."—Philadelphia Record.

Pound Foolishness.
One of the commonest forms of pound foolishness is countenanced by many high authorities. This is the purchase of certain household provisions in large quantities. Few writers on domestic topics fail to lay stress upon the economy of buying groceries in bulk. That sugar and flour, potatoes and apples should be bought by the half or whole barrel, cereals by the case, butter by the tub and other things in like proportion is one of the early precepts in the "Young Housekeeper's Complete Guide to Domestic Economy."

The ignorant young things buy the provisions first and the experience afterward. The flour grows musty, the cereals develop weevils, the potatoes and apples rot long before they can be eaten, and the cook exercises a liveliness in the use of the butter and sugar she would never show were they bought in such limited amounts that the housekeeper could hold close watch over them. Even after these events the young mistress feels as if she were absolutely reckless and no manager at all when she so far departs from household law as to buy food in small quantities.—Independent.

Loneliness and Health.
A medical journal has of late been discoursing on the indigestion of loneliness. By this title is meant to be indicated the disorders of digestion which are believed to follow the practice of taking one's meals in solitary state. The topic is by no means an uninteresting one. Thousands of men and women living alone are compelled to take their meals for the most part without company. Week in and week out they feed themselves without a soul to talk to, and the medical journal devotes its energies to showing that the practice is not one that is likely to be conducive to digestion, to proper bodily nourishment or to health. The solitary man soon tires of merely eating, and if he is not of a literary turn of mind, his tendency is to hurry through his meals to escape from his loneliness into the society of his fellow men. Herein, it is held, lies a danger to health.

Discovery of Coal in Wales.
During the reign of Henry VIII. many attempts were made to discover coal in North Wales, and a Shrewsbury man, named Richard Gardner, was the only person who succeeded. The old records read: "He attempted and put into proof to fynde out coles about the town (Shrewsbury) in sondry places, and in one place especially called Enathe Haye, hard by the sayd towne, he found by his great diligence and trouble great store of see cole, the which is lyke to come much commoditie bothe to the riche and poore, that he is not only worthy of commendacion and maintenance, but also to be had in remembrance for ever."—Cardiff Western Mail.

The Russian Climate.
The Russians count upon their climate as one means of defense, as it was when Napoleon invaded Russia. Their troops are accordingly trained in winter maneuvers, including loading a battery, with its war transport and material complete, upon sleighs, moving it for some distance over a difficult, snow covered country and bringing it into action again.

A Curious Eating Custom.
The Dyaks divide in pairs when the hour arrives for taking food, the father and mother at one platter, two sisters at one and still two brothers at another. When the family is not equally divided as to sex, a brother and sister may eat together, but this must always be the youngest and oldest of the family.

Her Pet Name.
"Ah!" he sighed after she had blushingly whispered "Yes" in his bosom. "My own Mehitabel! Oh, that name's so formal! Surely your friends use some shorter one, some pet name!"

"Well," she murmured, "the girls at boarding school used to call me Piekles."—Philadelphia Press.

His Mistake.
"What curious mistakes men make sometimes! I've just been reading, for instance, that Columbus imagined that he had discovered the Indies."

"Ah, I made a worse mistake than that! When I married my wife, I thought I'd discovered paradise!"

Candid.

A DOMESTIC COMEDY.

THE VARIED RESULTS OF REARRANG-ING THE FURNITURE.

Mrs. Blank's Mania For Changing the Appearance of the Rooms Brought Trouble to the Male Contingent and Sorrow to Herself.

"Do you change the position of the furniture when you clean a room?"
inquired housewife No. 1 of a friend in the course of a heart to heart talk.

"Do I? Why, yes, indeed! I don't feel as if the room is cleaned unless I change the furniture a little bit. Do you?"

"Well, I usually change the ornaments around and so forth, but in the spring and fall I like to change everything in a room—completely alter the whole appearance of it. Then I fancy the things are all new, and they seem to look prettier somehow. But, do you know, my husband doesn't like it at all!"

"Neither does mine! Isn't that singular? Men are so peculiar!"
"Yes, indeed they are!"

So many housekeepers share the views of these two that a story with a moral will not be out of place.

It was the other night only that Mr.
Blank went unsuspiciously up stairs to bed at an unusually early hour, leaving his wife reading in the sitting room.

He had a headache and carried a goblet of water in his right hand. Fearlessly advancing into the dark bedroom Mr. Blank suddenly felt both legs violently cut from under him. He clutched wildly at the air and said several things of an exclamatory nature, but there was nothing to save him. He went down.

"Good gracious, Henry!" ejaculated Mrs. Blank, hurrying to the scene of disaster. "What is the matter?"
Where are you? Why don't you light the gas?"

Suiting the action to the word, she beheld her husband sprawling across the bed; the glass he had carried had discharged its contents across the pillowshams and shivered on the floor.

Mr. Blank did the talking for the next ten minutes. He said that of all the blankety blank folly of which the mind could conceive this of changing furniture around was the worst. He said it was a pretty thing for a man to walk into his own room and have to fall over things in the dark. He said he wouldn't stand it; the furniture must be replaced where it formerly stood.

"I shan't do anything of the kind," replied Mrs. Blank. "It looks very much nicer where it is. Why don't you feel where you are going when you get into a dark room?"

"S'pose you'd like me to crawl in on all fours?" snarled Mr. Blank. "I couldn't feel where the bed was unless I happened to touch the footboard. I thought I could walk clear over to the bureau. I tell you it's a confounded crank you have on this subject. Some day you'll precipitate a serious accident."

"If any one precipitates, it'll be you,
I should think," retorted Mrs. Blank felly. And the furniture remained where it was.

It was the next evening that Master Blank undertook to carry a pile of schoolbooks from the dining room to the sitting room. He had a bottle of ink in his hand, and he thought he knew exactly where the center table was. In the course of his peregrinations in search of it, however, he came into violent collision with the glass door of the bookcase, which he broke.

There were also ink traces discernible on the carpet when Mrs. Blank came in. This time there was some balm for her feelings. She could spank Master Blank and did it with the best will in the world.

Her own downfall was not long in coming, however, although for a few days only minor inconveniences were met with, such as the abrasion of ankles against chair rockers and slight bruises received by means of sudden contact with unforeseen obstacles. Last evening Mrs. Blank undertook to transfer the cage of her pet parrot from the window where it spends the day to the snug corner where it passes the night.

She did not trouble to light the gas, and by some unaccountable mental lapse she had forgotten the precise point at which a taborer, on which stood a jar-dinere, was stationed. She charged into the taborer with considerable force, was overbalanced by the weight of the cage in her arms and took a header with a resounding crash. The parrot shrieked, and, unable to distinguish friend from foe, inflicted a severe bite on her mistress' finger. Mr. Blank came in hurriedly, picked up his wife and assisted in making an inventory of sundry contusions. Then they lifted the parrot cage, badly bent, and the jardinere with a piece clipped out of it and the taborer somewhat scratched, and then Mr. Blank observed quietly:

"I have just one thing to ask you, Mrs. Blank. Was I right?"
"No, you were not!" retorted Mrs.
Blank savagely. "Serious accident?
What's serious about this, I should like to know? For goodness' sake, Henry, don't stand there trying to look like a marry! If you must have the furniture moved back, I'll move it!" And she did.—Philadelphia Record.

Preoccupation.

"Why do you speak so slightly of that eminent scientist?"
"I didn't mean to speak slightly of him," answered the young man with the striped shirt front, "but it does seem peculiar to me that a man who knows just when the next comet will arrive and just how far it is to the moon should be so utterly ignorant when it comes to a question of when it's time for dinner or what train to take to get to the nearest town."—Boston Traveler.

Naylor, baritone solos by Mr. S. H. Leonard, and readings by Miss Adelaide Barrett, nurse of Boston. Although it was not the first time Miss Jump has entertained Newton audiences, yet it was her initial appearance at Immanuel church. Her reading was gratifying in the extreme. Miss Jump possesses grace of manner, magnetic skill and sympathy of interpretation which gave to her selections the real artistic touch. She was especially happy and effective in the use of child dialect. All were charmed with her selection "A Shaker Romance."

Among Women.

The West Newton Women's Educational Club will meet in the parlors of the Unitarian church, West Newton, this afternoon in charge of the Education Committee, Mrs. Belkows, chairman. Mr. Edward B. Drew will speak on "Old China and the China of Today." Music will be under the direction of Mrs. Lawrence Mayo.

Two most excellent papers were given at the September and October meetings of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. by Mrs. E. C. Bigelow of Centre street, and Mrs. Lane of Oakleigh road, being interesting reports of the international jubilee convention held in Boston last June. Miss Jennie Mason's report from the convention held in Pittsfield in October was graphic and most interesting.

A meeting of the Ladies' Home Circle was held last Wednesday afternoon in the parlors of the Unitarian church, West Newton.

A meeting of the parliamentary class connected with the West Newton Women's Educational Club was held this afternoon in the parlors of the West Newton Unitarian church. Mrs. W. B. Blakemore of Newton is in charge of the class.

The Newton Centre Woman's Club held a meeting yesterday morning in Bray small hall. Mr. Leon H. Vincent made an address on "Lowell the Critic and Letter Writer."

The annual reception of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs was held yesterday afternoon at Newtonville. Temple hall was attractively decorated and contained a large number of club women, representing every organization in the city.

Postponement.

Owing to the illness of the performers the first entertainment in the May Sleeper Ruggles concert course at Hunnewell Clubhouse, Newton, will be postponed to a later date. The first performance to take place will be on January 8th.

Newton Club.

Saturday night was Home night and a large number of members enjoyed the whist and bowling for which mugs and steins were the prizes. Messrs. Geo. S. Perry and B. F. Shattuck were the winners at whist and Mr. H. G. Ripley won first prize at bowling.

Last Friday evening a large audience saw the bowling champions trim the cracks from the B. A. A. for a three straight win. B. A. A. were handicapped by being compelled to use strange balls, their own having gone astray, but nothing could have stopped the splendid pace set by Newton. The bowling records went by the board; new tops for team totals and single string being made by the winners. Buntin's bowling was the feature of the evening, and while he often missed the head pin, he seldom failed to make a spare. His bunching of six strikes helped along the total of the last string.

The score:

The finals in the handicap bowling tournament were rolled Tuesday evening between team No. 3, W. H. Pulsifer, captain, and team No. 8, E. S. Dow, captain; the latter winning the steins in two straight strings.

At duplicate whist, Monday evening, high score was made by F. M. Copeland and E. K. Sherman with 4 1/2 plus. Other plus scores were made by F. E. Marston and F. H. Potter, 2 1/2, and P. M. Blake and Wm. Hollings, 1 1/2.

The ladies' whist on Wednesday evening was an attractive feature, 73 couples being in attendance. The prizes consisting of bronzes, cut glass, and vases were won by Mrs. W. H. Rogers, Mrs. Edw. Mullen, Mrs. F. E. Marston, Mrs. A. C. Dunmore, Mrs. O. W. Walker and Miss Dunbar, the last being tied with Mrs. C. M. Goddard.

At the ladies' matinee Tuesday afternoon about 60 were present. There was whist at 14 tables and prizes were won by Mrs. Whiton, Miss Townley, Mrs. F. Kimball, Mrs. W. F. Lunt and Mrs. W. C. Richardson.

The Lucy Jackson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was delightfully entertained by Mrs. Wyman and Mrs. Saunders at the home of the former on Temple street, West Newton, Tuesday, Dec. 10. The regent, presided at the business meeting, after which Mrs. Pulsifer sang some charming selections and Miss Lucy E. Allen read a paper on "West Newton Half a Century ago," in which she mentioned Horace Mann, Cyrus Pierce, Lydia Maria Child and others who gave to West Newton the reputation of being a most progressive community.

After the paper a social hour was enjoyed while refreshments were served. Mrs. Prudden and Mrs. Williamson presided at the tables.

A Post Election Poem.

O orator of orators, you fought a valiant fight
By giving interviews each day and "overflows" at night,
By marvelous additions too, with figures of your own,
You won your seat, it's up to you, go "way back and sit down."

O orator of orators, and this is not in jest,
By what you did and what you said you put men to the test,
But men are men, and right is right, more worthy than a crown,
You won your seat, it's up to you, go "way back and sit down."

Hunnewell Club

Members of the boat club came down Wednesday evening and played at whist, pool and bowling.

Pastor for Newton Centre Church.

The Newton Centre Unitarian church has just chosen Rev. Morgan Millar to succeed Rev. Charles W. Wendte, who was called last spring to the Parker Memorial, Boston. Mr. Millar is about thirty years of age. He was born in Brooklyn, and educated at Trinity school, New York, Harvard College and Divinity school. For two years he was assistant of Dr. Edward Everett Hale in Boston and comes to Newton Centre from a church which he established in the middle West. Mr. Millar begins his pastorate next Sunday.

Katadbin Club Reception

The hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Heath on Highland avenue, Newtonville, contained a large gathering last evening at the reception tendered the members of the Katadbin Club by Mr. Heath, their president. About 150 were present. The decorations of the interior of the house were of a decidedly unique yet highly pleasing character. They combined the symbols of harvest-tide with those of the holiday season. The effect was not only picturesque but charming. At the dining tables too, there was displayed the same clever arrangements, and the viands of forefathers were enjoyed in a most palatable form. During the evening there was old-time music by a "fiddler."

The ushers were Messrs. Frank Dunlap Frisbie, John W. Allen J. Murray Quimby and Joseph W. Beverley.

BAKER BURIED

By Republican Avalanche From Every Ward.

Weeks Has 911 Plurality and 426 Majority—Baily's Vote Very Small.

Election day passed off rather quietly in Newton, although the heavy rain in the early morning had rather a depressing effect on the Republicans.

Fortunately, however, the storm abated early enough to allow the "jame, the halt and the blind" time enough to get to the polls.

The feature of the day was the personal work of scores of prominent citizens which added to the efforts of the ward and city committee, undoubtedly caused the extraordinary vote of over 4800.

In wards three and two this work was extremely noticeable and hardly a voter on West Newton hill but what was intercepted on his way to the train and urged to go to the polls. Nearly 90 per cent. of the registration in both precincts of ward 3 was cast.

A glance at the table of figures shows that Captain Weeks carries every ward in the city. Ward 7 being the banner ward with a plurality of 334 and a majority of 299. Mr. Baker carries only the five Democratic precincts and Mr. Baily carries but one, (Chestnut Hill).

For alderman at large Mr. Chesley receives the largest vote where the election was contested and Mr. Baker the smallest. Mr. Day has the largest vote in the uncontested wards.

For ward aldermen, the Republicans elected every candidate, by substantial majorities. In ward 4, where the Democratic candidate made a very remarkable run, the large vote called out by the mayoralty conditions, elected Mr. Pond.

No interest attached to the school committee election as there were no contests whatever.

The license question was decided as usual by a large majority in the negative. Four precincts only giving a majority in favor of license. A surprise was given the temperance people in the "yes" vote of Newton Highlands.

The eight hour labor law and the three year term of office for the City Clerk are adopted by large majorities. The detailed vote is as follows:

Considering the size of the vote, the returns were received in good time at City Hall, Precinct 2 of Ward 2, coming in at 4.50 o'clock and Ward 7 as usual bringing up the rear at 7.45 p. m.

The politicians gathered at City Hall were soon assured of the success of the Republican ticket and left early to visit Capt. Weeks, who kept open house, the entire evening.

Here was gathered a large number of noteworthy people and congratulations and good feeling were very manifest. The feature of the evening was the presence of a delegation from the naval militia of which Capt. Weeks was a former commander.

Defeated Candidate Holds Reception.

Mr. Thomas J. Lyons, candidate for ward alderman in Ward 4, who piled up the highest Democratic vote known in his precinct, at Tuesday's election, kept "open house" for his friends that evening in face of his defeat. In the club rooms of the Norumbega Club, Auburn street, Auburndale, Mr. Lyons proved himself a most amiable host, and every guest enjoyed his hospitality to its fullest measure.

Among the gathering were leading Democrats from every ward who congratulated Mr. Lyons on the amount of his vote, which, as they declared, testified to his popularity. Mr. Lyons was a "happy loser" and is not one whit chagrined, but rather heartily grateful for the support given him.

Death of Dr. James R. Deane.

Dr. James R. Deane, a long time resident of Newton Highlands, and the second oldest practitioner in the city, died at his home 9 Forest street, Friday, after a protracted illness.

Born in Liberty, Me., 68 years ago, Dr. Deane secured his early education in the common schools and afterward entered Bowdoin College. With a short time after his graduation he had established a good practice. During the civil war he held a commission in the U. S. navy, where he rendered invaluable service with his excellent knowledge of surgery.

Dr. Deane came to Newton Highlands in 1875. His reputation as a physician and surgeon was soon established. For his many benefactions he was greatly beloved. He was prominent in local affairs and for three years was a member of the board of aldermen.

He was also a member of the Loyal Legion, of Gethsemane commandery, K. T., of Newtonville, and of the Massachusetts Medical Society.

Funeral services were held at 1 Sunday afternoon. The Deane residence contained many mourners. All classes were present for the doctor had a wide circle of friends both among the rich and poor.

Among the gathering were Judge Sheldon of the superior court, Dr. Samuel J. Mixer and Dr. Donahue of Boston, many Newton physicians and men and women of Newton Highlands. Floral tributes completely buried the coffin and came from Gethsemane commandery and the Loyal Legion and other societies, whose representatives attended the funeral. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Julian C. Jaynes of West Newton. The services were simple, but impressive, and consisted only of scripture reading and prayer.

The burial was in the Cambridge cemetery. At the grave services were conducted by Gethsemane commandery.

Newton Boat Club Whist.

There will be a members' whist at the Newton Boat Clubhouse, Riverside, tomorrow evening. It is proposed, if sufficient interest is manifested, to hold these whists throughout the winter.

Fine Sleighting.

High steppers, jingling bells and all kinds of fine sleighs were seen Sunday along the Newton boulevard from Chestnut Hill to Auburndale. The greatest press occurred in the afternoon, the fine roadway being crowded three abreast. The favorite spot seemed to be between Chestnut Hill and Chestnut street, West Newton.

While many of those out were from beyond Newton's borders, the Garden city was well represented. Among those seen were H. B. Day, H. F. Ross, Dr. S. A. Sylvester, N. H. Chadwick, C. W. Leatherbee, F. B. Stevens, J. L. Atwood, H. A. Priest, M. C. Hayes, W. B. H. Dowse, R. S. Palmer, F. L. Cook, E. R. Earle and others.

A. J. Snell wanted to attend a party but was afraid to do so on account of pains in his stomach, which he feared would grow worse. He says, "I was telling my troubles to a lady friend, who said: 'Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy will put you in condition for the party.' I bought a bottle and take pleasure in stating that two doses cured me and enabled me to have a good time at the party." Mr. Snell is a resident of Summer Hill, N. Y. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Electric Damaged by Accident at Newtonville.

Shortly before 9 last Friday evening while a Wellesley & Boston electric was stationary at a point on Washington street, between Crafts and Harvard streets, Newtonville, it was struck from the rear by a car of the Newton street railway. Both cars were west bound.

The Wellesley car had stopped because of trouble with its trolley and the conductor was on the roof making repairs at the time of the accident. It is believed that the absence of light made the motorman of the Waltham car totally unaware of the danger and that this was the cause of the accident.

The vestibules of both cars were considerably damaged. The car crews escaped injury but a young woman passenger on the Wellesley car, who was standing up at the time of the accident, fell to the floor. She was but little injured, so far as could be learned.

If you would have an appetite like a bear and a relish for your meals take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They correct disorders of the stomach and regulate the liver and bowels. Price 25 cents. At all druggists.

Newton Golf Club Election.

Cobb; vice president, George Linder; treasurer, F. N. Robbins; secretary, T. Weston, Jr.; executive committee, A. J. Wellington, George E. Hatch, J. D. Edmunds, E. A. Rogers, A. H. Gilbert, W. D. Orcutt, A. J. George, G. W. Jackson and H. S. Kimball.

Why Zinc and Grinding?

White lead chalks off; zinc prevents it; ground together they wear twice as long as lead alone; and that is Devco. Zinc and grinding are necessary.

Mrs. Ruggles Concert.

Mrs. May Sleeper Ruggles has undertaken to bring before Newton music lovers, a high order of concerts, using Newton's artists only, with the exception of Miss Katharine B. Halliday, cellist.

At the first concert, Dec. 18, Prof. Louis C. Stanton will give a short lecture, illustrated by piano and voice from the works of Rheinberger, Schumann, and others. The latter half of the program will be given to modern Scandinavian music, Grieg and Sinding being the most prominent composers.

Mrs. Ruggles will sing four or five new songs from that picturesque writer—Sinding. Grieg's famous Autumnal Gale will be one of the most pleasing songs on the program.

The second in the concert on Jan. 8, will be a musicale by the Misses Trowbridge and Mrs. Ruggles.

Miss Louise E. Trowbridge is a well known brilliant pianist. Her recital in Steinert Hall created much enthusiasm among the Boston critics. Miss Agnes H. Trowbridge, the popular young violinist, will play a number of fine selections, as well as obligatos for Mrs. Ruggles. The songs will be from the modern composers.

The third concert, Jan. 22, will be largely oriental in character. Serbian and Bulgarian songs in the native tongues as well as other eastern novelties. A cello will be the instrument assisting Mrs. Ruggles.

The fourth evening will be a recital by pupils of Mrs. Ruggles from Newton, Boston and Worcester. Her studio recitals by her pupils are recognized as musical events worthy the name of concert. She will introduce a number of fine voices upon this occasion.

This attractive series of concerts has the approval of a long list of patrons and patronesses, representing the most cultured and best known people in the city of Newton.

Newton Skating Club.

The gentlemen behind this enterprise have decided to continue the business another season on the lines published in the Graphic some few weeks ago.

Admission to the Cedar street grounds will be solely by season ticket and no tickets will be sold to the general public.

Mr. Harry Campbell will again have charge of the rink and the attractive carnivals and illuminations of last year will be repeated on a larger scale.

A commodious club house is being erected for the accommodation of patrons, equipped with lockers and connected by telephone.

It is hoped to be able to open the grounds next week provided suitable weather for making ice is experienced.

Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R.

The fifth anniversary celebration of the organization of Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R., was observed with appropriate exercises in the Newton, clubhouse, Newtonville, Thursday afternoon of last week from 2 to 6.

The assembly hall was handsomely decorated. The chief figures of oratory were the buff and blue of the continental and the American flags on a background of green.

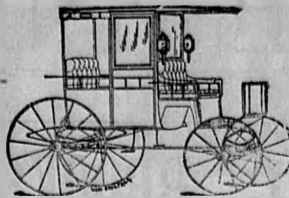

Mrs. Alexander M. Ferris, the regent, opened the meeting with a few appropriate remarks in regard to the formation of the chapter five years ago. She told how she had been asked to take charge of the work by Miss Hunt, the state regent. There were only a few members at first, and now there are 118. Mrs. F. O. Stanley of Haverhill avenue then read a historical sketch of the past five years.

Miss Blanche Stanley of Centre street rendered a group of songs and Miss Margaretta Logan sang several contralto selections. Mrs. S. Curtis Smith read an interesting patriotic paper on the revolutionary times. The exercises closed with the singing of America. Mrs. A. H. Clifford was chairman of the dining room decoration committee. One of the dining rooms was adorned with laurel and small flags. A unique idea of Mrs. Clifford's was a birthday angel cake which bore the two dates, 1896—1901 asparagus and laurel were intertwined with dark blue bachelor buttons around the cake. There were five candles for the five years and the sixth one for good luck. Pieces were given to all the members.

Mrs. James H. Wheeler, Mrs. A. H. Clifford, Mrs. Ralph Emery and Mrs. Prescott Warren presided at the tables, assisted by Mrs. Anna L. Bailey, Mrs. George Agry, Miss Whiting, Miss Coburn, Miss Fox, Miss Mellen, Miss Logan, Miss Whittemore, Mrs. Priest, Miss Clark, Miss Partridge, Miss Barker, Mrs. Bliss and Mrs. Godding.

A Letter.

One suffering we all have to put up with at the Terminal at Boston is the compelling of Newton people and others to daily walk the length of from 2 to 5 cars before one can step into even the rear car of the train to be taken, that is the next to go out. It is an awful tiresome walk at times to the feeble, and is discouraging enough to the tired as well. But then most Americans will stand almost any tyranny imposed by Americans. Not so with John Bull.

Ex-Mayor Henry E. Bothfield, member elect of the school committee from Ward 7, was born in New York, March 4, 1859, and is the son of Herman F. and Julia Bothfield.

He received his education in the Newton schools and in 1885 was admitted to the firm of J. A. N. Harwood, manufacturers of leather board, later merged into the National Fibre Board Co., where he remained until 1900, when he assumed his present business of management of trust property.

Mr. Bothfield has served in the common council in 1891-92, the board of aldermen in 1893-94, where he was elected president and received the unusual honor of an unanimous election as mayor in 1895. During his term of office of mayor, the important improvement of the widening of Washington street was consummated. Mr. Bothfield declined a renomination for mayor on account of ill health.

Mr. Bothfield is married and with a family of four children reside on Hunnewell avenue.

He is a director of the Hunnewell Club, the Newton Cooperative Bank, the Mass. Civil Service Reform League and treasurer of the Channing Religious Society.

Newton Associated Charities.

Some years ago, Professor C. E. Norton of Cambridge wrote in answer to an inquiry: "When I assisted the Englishman concerning whom you inquire, I knew nothing of him but his own story. He has long been expecting remittances from England! A wretched dead beat. He needs help but I do not know how he can be effectively helped."

Dr. E. N. Kirk, in years gone by the pastor of Mt. Vernon church, Boston, used to give money to almost every stranger who applied and seemed in need. He told his deacon, then connected with city missions, of his custom, and said, "I suppose I give away $100 a year, in such charities." The deacon said: "Always send them to me." At the end of a year Dr. Kirk asked the deacon, "How much do I owe you?" One dollar, was the reply. All the rest of them were absolutely unworthy, but only a few called with your card.

People criticize "systematic charity" they call "scientific" benevolence a check to one's best impulses. "Better," say the critics, "help a dozen fronds than allow one worthy person to go without aid."

On such grounds, the Associated Charities is looked at askance by many kind hearted, lavish givers and the community suffers.

It was a saying of Benjamin Franklin: "I think the best way of doing good to the poor is not by making them easy in poverty, but by leading or driving them to better things." Theodore Roosevelt, in his address at the opening of the Tenement House Exhibition in New York, said that "The way to help any one is to help him help himself. Of course, struggle as we may to improve conditions, those who come after us will have to struggle too. We are not to expect ease in anything."

And yet while the Associated Charities calls for effort from benevolent citizens, it really makes giving easier to the giver. It helps him to a better knowledge of the needs of the needy and so enhances his pleasure in giving. It saves the regret we will certainly feel in consequence of misplaced alms and relieves him from the sense of lost opportunity in cases which he has no time to investigate.

The individual, however, is hardly seen the unit in the work of the Associated Charities. It is largely the family, the children in destitute families and the widow or deserted wife with her dependants, who are looked after and put in the way of comfort and if possible, of self help.

During the month of October, the secretary of the Newton Association was called upon to take an active interest in the affairs of twenty-five individuals representing about one hundred and fifteen persons. Seven were widows, six of them with children to support. Three of them were widows of men suddenly killed within a year. Six were wives of men who had deserted them or are in jail. One has a blind husband. The husband of another was injured in a powder mill explosion. His wife utterly broke down in trying to support, by washing, this husband and five children.

This list might be extended to a great length did space, kindly given by this journal, permit. We simply wish to keep before the good people of Newton always profuse in charitable effort, the fact of the existence of this association, the name of Mrs. M. R. Martin, its indefatigable secretary at Newtonville, and the work that she and self denying voluntary workers are constantly doing. We hope to get and keep the ear of the public by means of press notices, gratuitously inserted, and we bespeak at least a friendly examination and appreciation of the principles which underlie the cause we represent.

THE ENTERTAINMENT CLUB.

WILL BEGIN ITS '01-02 SEASON OF PLAYS IN CHANNING CHURCH PARLORS NEXT TUESDAY EVENING ASSISTED BY "THE THEATREPIANS."

A combination, representing some of the greatest strength in local amateur dramatic circles, is that of the Entertainment Club and the Theatrepians. Members of both will be seen in cleverly adapted plays in the Channing church parlors next Tuesday evening, when a program that promises much enjoyment is to be given.

The occasion marks the beginning of the Entertainment Club's public performances of the season of '01-02.

The Theatrepians, whose work of a number of years at Newton Centre and Newton Highlands, has won for them much praise, not only in their own villages but throughout the city, will give what may be called a typical college farce, entitled "Chums."

It is particularly bright and witty and affords a fine opportunity for Mr. Charles F. Miller, who offers a female impersonation worthy to be ranked among professional work. This character while on entirely original lines, suggests the lively female in "Charley's Aunt," and "Chums," though shorter, is said to be equally funny. The cast: Mr. Breed, H. H. Day; Harry Breed, A. B. Rice; Thomas Burnham, Charles F. Miller; Flora Strong, Miss Lillian Ruddick and Mrs. Breed, Miss Flora P. Rice.

"Poor Pillioddy," is the name of a screamingly absurd farce that members of the Entertainment Club have chosen. It is a series of ridiculous situations, cross purposes and mirth-provoking dialogue. Mr. Ernest Wright, well known as the club's successful "coach," has the name part which finds him at his best as an eccentric comedian. The parts are distributed as follows: Mr. Pillioddy, Mr. Ernest Wright; Capt. O'Scuttle, Mr. Leverett Bentley; Mrs. Pillioddy, Miss Florence Hills; Mrs. O'Scuttle, Miss Ethel Ford and Sarah Blum, Mrs. Ralph W. Bartlett.

Tickets are on sale at Hubbard's drug store.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

Children's Theatre—"Little Miss Muffet's Christmas Party" was given for the first time Saturday, Dec. 7th, at the Children's Theatre, Huntington Chambers, 30 Huntington avenue, Boston, and its reception was a succession of enthusiastic outbursts from the audience. This is the second play that has been given by the children's Theatre company and in it the company surpassed all expectations. The play is so full of good things that it is hard to single out any particular feature as being better than the rest. Although all very simple and child-like there are parts of it that are deserving of a place among the plays of today seen on the best stages. Performances of Miss Muffet will be given every Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 4 o'clock and every Saturday at 2.30 o'clock during the next four weeks. Then during Christmas week, matinees will be given on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 2.30 o'clock. There will be no matinee Tuesday, December 24.

Boston Museum—The third month of great success is the record of "Sky Farm" at the Boston Museum, a really phenomenal run of a play of this kind. There is nothing complicated about the plot of the story, there is a touch of the melodrama in one of the characters, probably introduced for "relief" to the comedy element and the narrative is unfolded in a consistent manner. The landscapes, particularly, are splendid examples of scenic art. It is all sweet, and clean and pretty. "Sky Farm" cannot remain much longer at the Museum for Clara Lipman and Louis Man are scheduled to appear in "The Red Kloof" and this engagement cannot be postponed.

Republican Rally in Ward One.

The barriers of precedent were removed by the Republicans last Saturday evening and a municipal campaign rally held in Armory hall. All the old-time accompaniments of red fire and band music served to enliven matters and made the evening one of the most interesting of the campaign.

Gathered in the hall were representative Ward 1 voters to the number of more than 500. Capt. Weeks was accorded a flattering reception and all the other speakers were well received.

Mr. Charles E. Hatfield, president of the Republican ward and city committee, presided. He called upon Mayor Henry E. Bothfield, Hon. Albert L. Harwood, Mr. Fred H. Tucker, Mr. Thomas B. Fitzpatrick and Mr. George H. Ellis.

The remarks of these speakers, like those of Capt. Weeks, which followed, were attentively listened to and frequently applauded. In the speeches of the evening various phases of the campaign and municipal affairs were logically discussed and much was accomplished in dispelling the fog of buncombe and prejudice that previously had kept the average voter guessing.

Jack Frost and the Merry Sleigh Bells Bazaar.

Jack Frost and the Merry Sleigh Bells Bazaar in aid of the Free Home for Consumptives will be held in the Vendome, Commonwealth avenue, Boston, opening next Monday evening, Dec. 16, and closing Saturday evening, Dec. 21st, under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Charitable Association.

This will be one of the most elaborate and appropriate events of the season. Entire Boston and vicinity is interested in the affair and it promises to be a marvellous success. Newton will be represented by the apron table.

Lassell Notes

The pupils' musical rehearsal will take place at Lassell Seminary, Tuesday evening, Dec. 17, at 7.30. Friends are invited.

Out of Plumb.

When the wall is out of plumb the building is more or less unsafe, and the higher the wall is carried out of the perpendicular the greater the danger of collapse. It is about so with the health; it is out of plumb when the digestion is impaired, when there is a dull, sluggish, with nervousness, irritability and sleeplessness. Every day that these symptoms are neglected increases the liability to physical collapse.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood and cures nervousness, irritability and sleeplessness by curing the diseases in which they originate.

"For three years I suffered untold agony," writes Mrs. H. K. White, of Standeard, Co. Quebec. "I would have spells of trembling and being sick at my stomach, pain in right side all the time, then it would work up into my stomach and such distress it is impossible to describe. I wrote to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, stating my case to them, and they very promptly answered and told me what to do. I took eight bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and five vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Thanks to Dr. Pierce and his medicine I am a well woman today. Dr. Pierce's medicines also cured my mother of liver complaint from which she has been a sufferer for fifteen years. We highly recommend these medicines to all suffering people."

VICTORY FOR CAPT. WEEKS.

Newton was aroused as never before on Tuesday last and administered a stinging rebuke to the campaign of sophistry and misrepresentation which has been waged within its limits during the last ten days.We trust that Bakerism is so thoroughly buried under the enormous plurality given Captain Weeks that its like will never show its head in Newton politics again. An active and aggressive minority has a salutary effect in any form of popular government, but the voters of this city will hereafter insist that its opposition shall be conducted on lines of honest-ty and fairness.The Republicans were fortunate in having such an ideal candidate as Captain Weeks, whose personal popularity and character attracted the support of every citizen who believes in honest and efficient city government.
The city committee is also to be commended for its hard and faithful work in which it was assisted by a large corps of prominent citizens.An additional cause of congratula-tion is the emphatic majority given the no license question. A result brought about with little or no work on the part of its advocates.Taken all in all we are never so proud of the city of Newton as today, and believe that this election fixes a standard for years to come.

INCONSISTENT.

In matters affecting school houses the present board of aldermen appear to delight in not being consistent.Last summer they ordered free architectural competition on plans for the new Mason building, and at the same meeting voted for limited competition for the Ash street building.
They have now decided in favor of wooden stairs and lathing in the sixteen room building at Newton Centre, and then order iron stairs and metal lathing in the eight room building at Auburndale.If there is any force at all in the argument that the iron construction makes a slower burning building in case of fire than the wood, it would seem more desirable to reverse the above order and give the larger building whatever benefit there may be in that form of construction.The present popular demand for iron construction in an otherwise not fire proof building is merely a fad. In school houses it adds nothing to the safety of the pupils, as wooden stairs made impossible by fire would be equally so with iron construction and similar conditions, through warping and smoke.

CHARLES RIVER DAM.

The hearings to be given next week upon the matter of dam and locks on the Charles river near Craigie bridge, before the commission recently appointed by Governor Crane, will be of great interest to this city. While only a small portion of the city will reap the immediate benefit to be obtained by keeping the water at a more uniform level, the whole city will be indirectly concerned in the immense advantage to accrue to the lower portion of the Charlesriver valley. City Solicitor Slocum will represent the city at the hearing.

A THIRD CANDIDATE.

There never has been a better illustration of the danger of throwing away votes upon a third candidate than has been shown the present year.
The extraordinary size of the vote is the only reason for the victory of Captain Weeks.Heretofore 3600 votes have been considered a large number for a city election and as the Baker vote of 1686 would have been cast for him under any circumstances, it can be readily seen that the Baily vote of 484 would have ordinarily defeated the Republican candidate. It is easy after the event to state that there was never any danger that Mr.
Baily's candidacy might cause the election of Mr. Baker. The above statement of facts shows the fallacy of such reasoning. In the future we hope that citizens who desire a business like management of city affairs will not split their vote and run the chance of electing undesirable candidates.

AN APOLOGY.

Webster defines a demagogue as "a leader of the people, especially one who controls the multitude by specious or deceitful arts, a pandering to popular prejudices; an artful political orator."We therefore owe Mr. Baker, late Democratic candidate for mayor, a partial apology for calling him a demagogue before election.The results of last Tuesday prove that he is not a "leader" nor does he control "the multitude."It is interesting to note that the mayorality vote of over 4800 cast last Tuesday is fully 30 per cent. larger than that cast at any prior municipal election. The result is equally a fine tribute to Captain Weeks and to the civic pride of the people of Newton.
Long may it continue.The size of the vote given Mr.
Baker shows that a great many citizens need to be educated to take a broader view of municipal affairs than what is embraced in the Democratic candidate's platform and speeches.We humbly apologize to the village of Newton Highlands for the statement in our news columns that their precinct was carried in favor of license. The precinct cast its usual good majority for "no".

City Hall Notes.

A civil service examination of applicants for positions as foremen of laborers will be held in Newton, Dec. 23rd. Citizens of the United States who have been residents of Massachusetts for the past year, and of Newton for the six months last past, have a right to apply. Blank applications may be obtained of John C. Brimblecom, Secretary of the Board of Examiners. Those who file applications with Mr. Brimblecom on or before Dec. 20th, will be notified to appear for examination.The general contract for the new annual reunion in the American House, Boston, today. The occasion marks the 39th anniversary of the battle of Fredericksburg, in which Col. K. of Newton took an active and prominent part. The affair will be attended by Col. Kingsbury, Col. J. F.

E. Consens of Newton Centre and Hosca Hyde.The yes vote on the license question of Precinct 2, Ward 3, is only 67 instead of 267 as stated in another column.A lively contest is in sight over the vice presidency of the next board of aldermen.

A QUESTION OF TEETH.

Did the Immortal George Wear Artificial or Natural Ones?"George Washington's false teeth, which were supposed to have been made of ivory, are giving a certain class of frank historians about as much trouble as they must have given the venerable patriot who wore them," said one of the professors of the Smithsonian Institution to a reporter recently."Many times a year for several years this institution has been called upon to inspect persons who insist that they are here.""Our matter of fact answer to these inquiries that Washington had no false teeth, or at least if he did, that they are not in the possession of the museum, seems only to stimulate the inquiring mind to protest our statement.
They proceed to give us authentic accounts of these teeth and always conclude with expressing the belief that they must be in the museum somewhere.""Where or how the idea that Washington had false teeth originated is an unsolved mystery. That it is firmly believed by many is certainly a fact.
There seems to be no authentic record of the Father of His Country possessing ivory teeth, and by a study of the bust we have of him, which was made but a few years before his death, there is no indication of an indentation along the line of the gums such as can be noticed in persons who have had their teeth drawn, even though they wear artificial ones. However, we will continue to answer the same question in the same way probably many times in the future."According to some biographers Washington lost his teeth during his service as commander in chief of the Continental army and had a set of ivory ones made. These teeth, it is also stated, gave him much trouble because they did not fit.—Washington Star.

RAILWAY RUMBLES.

Ireland claims the honor of the first electric railway in the United Kingdom.It is said that the cheapest railway fares in the world are to be found in Hungary.Denmark has a government railroad system of 1,167 miles and 525 miles of private railroads.The Servian, Roumanian and Bulgarian railroads are owned exclusively by the respective governments.Travelers on Prussian railways whose baggage, through no fault of their own, fails to arrive with them can now have it sent on request free to their homes.The difficulty of railway construction in some parts of Africa is illustrated by the fact that on the Freetown-Matruluh, in Sierra Leone, eleven steel bridges had to be built in a distance of only thirty kilometers.A representative of the Paris Temps has been examining railway stations in Germany, and he declares that those of Dresden, Cologne, Hanover, Frankfurt, Bremen, etc., are far superior to any of the French except the Parisian.

Paying a Creditor.

Like many another famous man both before his time and since, Talleyrand exhibited, at least in early life, a great reluctance to settling with his creditors.
When he was appointed bishop of Autun by Louis XVI., he considered a fine new coach to be necessary to the proper maintenance of the dignity of that office. Accordingly a coach was ordered and delivered, but not paid for.
Some time after, as the newly appointed bishop was about to enter his coach, he noticed a strange man standing near who bowed continually until the coach was driven away. This occurred for several days until at length Talleyrand, addressing the stranger, said:
"Well, my good man, who are you?"
"I am your coachmaker, my lord," replied the stranger."Ah," said Talleyrand, "you are my coachmaker! And what do you want, my coachmaker?"
"I want to be paid, my lord.""Ah, you are my coachmaker, and you want to be paid? You shall be paid, my coachmaker.""But when, my lord?"
"Tomorrow," said Talleyrand, settling himself comfortably among the cushions of his new coach and eyeing his coachmaker severely, "you are very inquisitive!"

Salad Eating Good Sense.

Even men are progressing gastronomically. Scientific dietetics has at last revealed to us the fact that the woman who eats salad on a hot day in July, August or September is displaying sound gastronomic sense, says What to Eat. The long haired dreamer in the restaurant may have been nineteen different kinds of a fool upon every other proposition in life, but he knew what to eat on a hot day. The human animal needs grass or its equivalent in summer. With their oil the salads supply everything a man physically needs in hot weather. All the civilized races of the world are salad eaters, but Americans eat less than do any other people.
It is not a sign of mental decay or moral degeneracy for a man to eat salad; it is gastronomic sense.

Harpers Ferry.

Harpers Ferry was named after Robert Harper, an architect and mill builder, born in 1703 in the town of Oxford, England. He came to America in 1735 with his brother Joseph and located in Philadelphia, where for a time he prospered but, failing later, concluded to join the Friends of Loudon county, Va. En route to his new home he came upon the gap in the Blue Ridge mountains, where he made his home.

Do You Want To Be Strong?

We Have Poof at Hand that Vinol is all that is Claimed For It.A good many of us have to go "to the city" to get certain things.
We will save our friends and customers the trouble of a trip, at least so far as buying Vinol is concerned.It is one of the greatest tonic rebuilders that has ever been brought to our attention. Large quantities of it are sold in all of the large cities of our state and elsewhere. Now we have been appointed sole agents for this place.Vinol is better than cod liver oil for everything for which this greasy mixture was prescribed.The following from Chillicothe, Ohio, written by Mr. George Burgoon, who says:
"My wife was very much run down in flesh and strength. Commenced taking VINOL and she felt the beneficial results of it before the first bottle was gone. She took four bottles in all and received wonderful benefit. Her strength returned and she gained materially in weight. I am happy to state that she is now in perfect health and we give VI-NOL the entire credit for this happy result."Won't you please call on us and let us tell you how VINOL does good or let us send you a book that tells all about it.
We sell Vinol under a guarantee that if it don't help you we will return your money.FRED A. HUBBARD

High School Notes.

The beautiful shield which Newton High won in the Harvard Inter-scholastic Lawn Tennis tournament last spring has been placed in the corridor of the High school building.

Arrangements are being made to organize the boys' basketball class teams.

A good picture of the Newton High football team, the champion in the preparatory league of 1901 and a review of their most successful season appeared in the Boston Globe on Saturday morning.

Attempts are being made to raise about $50 to assist the Newton High school hockey team in its season's work.

The work of the boys' battalion is progressing rapidly. Guns have been assigned and the officers and privates wear their uniforms at each drill.

The High school battalion band consists of 15 members. Mr. Walton has been appointed the instructor.

The T. C. S. 1902 will hold a dance on Dec. 21 at the Newton Highlands clubhouse.

The Tau Tau Tau 1903 is planning for a dance after Christmas.

The meeting of the Lyceum will be held on next Thursday.

An important meeting of the Newton High Athletic Association was held last Friday.

The Newton High Girls' Basketball varsity team has been selected and is as follows: Goals, C. Richardson, '02, R. Hinds, '03, F. Walworth, '03; centers, Elsie Elliott, '02, H. Dill, '03, A. Allen, '03; guards, M. Tapley, '03, M. Lovell, captain, M. Perkins, manager.

The basket ball game between the sophomore and freshman class teams has been postponed until Saturday, Dec. 21 at 10 o'clock.

The first basket ball game of the season between the freshmen class team and the second team was won by the freshmen, 31 to 3.

About 25 candidates have come out for the High school hockey team.

Ministers' Union.

A meeting of the Ministers' Union was held last Tuesday afternoon at the Church of the Messiah, Auburn.

There was a good attendance and Rev. G. R. W. Scott, D. D., of Newton read a paper on "An Old Factor for a New Century," in which he claimed that thinking men over 50 years of age, especially ministers and other professionals were more valuable than the young men. They continue to grow and modern statistics of science prove this statement. A discussion followed.

Letter to Wauwinet Farm, West Newton.

Dear Sir: There are several ways of cheating in milk. An old-fashioned way is to water it. Nobody waters it now. A new way is to take out the cream—rich milk with the cream taken out is as good as poor milk with its cream all in.

But we needn't go into particulars. You don't rob your milk and your customers.

Paint is as easy as milk to cheat with. Good paint is as rare as good milk for human nature is much the same in milkmen and paint men.

You are just and true with your milk; so are we with our paint. Devote lead and zinc is twice as good as pure white-lead; lasts twice as long. There's twice as much butter in it.

Yours truly,

F. W. Devoe & Co.

ANCIENT UMBRELLAS

THEY FIGURED IN CHURCHES IN THE EARLY CHRISTIAN DAYS.

When First Adopted by the Public, They Seem to Have Been Utilized Solely as Sun Protectors—Once an Attribute of Dignity.

In the early Christian churches a large umbrella usually hung over the priest, and it is said that from this custom it became one of the attributes of cardinals appointed from basilican churches. For years the doges of Venice carried umbrellas of state, and in 1298 Pope Alexander III. declared that these should be surmounted by golden statuettes of the annunciation.

Michael Morosini was the first Venetian layman to carry an umbrella, which consisted of a small, flat square of green stuff, over which was a copper spiral. Soon after the umbrella was adopted by fashionable Venetian dames. According to Coryat's "Cruities" (1611), the Italian umbrella was a small canopy and was made of leather extended by a series of wooden hoops. He says umbrellas were used by horsemen, who, resting the handles on the thigh as they rode, bore them so that they should "minister shadow unto them for shelter against the scorching sun."

In the Harleian manuscripts, now in the British museum, there is in manuscript No. 603 a crude illustration showing the figure of a yeoman holding an umbrella over his lord, which leads me to infer that umbrellas were known in England even in the early Anglo-Saxon period.

Beck, as quoted in the Draper's Dictionary, asserts that at the time that Stephen usurped the crown of England (twelfth century) umbrellas were in common use among the English. The first mention of the umbrella in English literature is in Florio's "World of Wonders" (1598), where it is described as a "kind of round fan or shadowing that they use to ride with in summer in Italy; a little shade."

In 1650 an umbrella was exhibited in the "Museum Tradescantianum; or, Collection of Rarities Preserved at South Lambeth, Near London, by John Tradescant," which was known as "one of the wonders of the ark."

In the church of Cartmell, in Lancashire, England, there was preserved until a few years ago an umbrella said to be over 300 years old, which was used chiefly to protect the host.

References to the umbrella are to be found also in Blount's "Glossographia" (1674) and Phillips' "New World of Words" (1678). In the first reference reads: "Umbrello, a fashion of round and broad fans, wherewith the Indians (and from them our great ones) preserve themselves from the heat of the sun, and hence any little shadow, fan or other thing wherewith the women guard their faces from the sun." The second runs: "Umbrello, a screen against the sun's heat, used chiefly by the Spaniards, among whom it is known by the name quitasole."

The imaginative Dean Swift in the "Tale of a Tub" (1690) depicts Jack, an ever resourceful type, making use of a parchment copy of his father's will as a nightcap when he went to bed and as an umbrella in rainy weather. Did the worthy Hanway take his cue from this or from Kersey, according to whom the umbrella was a "broad fan or screen commonly used by women to shelter them from rain?" The last reference, made in 1700, is the first mention of it as a protector from the rain. Later Bailey, who in his dictionary (1737) called it a parasol, defined it as "a sort of small canopy to keep off the rain."

Small, light umbrellas came into fashion among the ladies of the French court in 1675, and these were carried by attendants. Richelet tells us that they were made of oiled cloth or leather and had ribs of whalebone. A century later they found favor with the men, who carried red umbrellas, with edges fringed with gold lace.

The precise date when Jonas Hanway, who died in 1780, introduced the umbrella into England is not recorded in any of the encyclopedias I have at hand, but they all state that he was popularly known as its introducer.

With the Dutch, as with the Indian grandees, the umbrella was first an attribute of dignity, and well it might be, for the prices paid for them at The Hague in 1650 ranged from $75 to $120 each. The Dutch colonists who settled at the Cape of Good Hope were not slow to insist on preserving the dignity of the umbrella, for Ryk van Tulbagh, governor of Cape Colony in 1752, enacted that "No one less in rank than a junior merchant or those among the citizens of equal rank, and the wives and daughters only of those who are or have been members of any council shall venture to use umbrellas, and those who are less in rank than merchants shall not enter the castle in fine weather with an open umbrella."—Frank H. Vizetelly in New York Times.

A Nongolfer's Opinion of Golf.

Imagine a great fat creature who ought to wear a turban and a long black robe to hide his grossness whacking a little white ball for miles and miles with a perfect surgery of instruments, whacking it either with a babyish solemnity or a childish rage, as luck may have decided, and incidentally training an innocent eyed little boy to swear and be a tip hunting loafer. That's golf.—H. T. W. Wells in Pearson's Magazine.

To the Best of Her Knowledge.

A lady was looking for her husband and inquired anxiously of a housemaid, "Do you happen to know anything of your master's whereabouts?" "I'm not sure, mum," replied the careful domestic, "but I think they're in the wash."—Pathfinder.

At the hearings upon the laying out of Court street and upon the widening of Sumner street no one appeared.

BOYLSTON STREET.

Upon the widening of Boylston street a representative of the Boston Ice Co. requested that the board take more land on the opposite side of the street and less from them.

Miss Cobb said that they could not spare any of their land.

Mr. John E. Titus also opposed the widening for the same reason, saying he preferred the alternative sketch heretofore considered. He asked that the board investigate the matter of lines and suggested that a building line would add to the beauty of the new street.

Mr. O'Laughlin representing Dennis and Joseph Driscoll, said they would give the necessary land if not assessed betterments.

Mr. Atterbury opposed the widening as not necessary to them, and said the taking of land and shade trees would cripple their estate.

Alderman Chesley said that Wm. L. Thompson wished the city to take more land from the opposite side of the street.

FROM THE MAYOR.

Mayor Pickard submitted communications from the city solicitor relative to Charles river dam and the abolition of grade crossings. The solicitor was authorized to appear at the hearings on the Charles river dam, and both matters were referred to the committee on legislation.

PETITIONS.

Petitions of Michael Hughes for a junk license; of Biagio Dimambro for a street musician license, and Rose M. Wallace for an intelligence office license were referred to the committee on licenses.

Petition of John T. Burns for an auctioneer license was granted.

Petition of Timothy Coughlin for soldiers' relief was referred to the military committee.

Petition of James W. French to move a building from Omar terrace to Edinboro street was granted.

REPORTS.

The following reports were received: FINANCE: Recommending grant of $10,192 for city expenses, January 1-15th; recommending grant of $47,433.49 for city expenses to Dec. 31; recommending $1,364.64 in various additional appropriations; recommending transfer of $259.50 to public property appropriation; recommending certain transfers to 1902; recommending payment of interest due Jan. 1st, of $36,317; appropriating $320 to settle Gallagher claim; appropriating $524.53 to settle Simpson claim, and in expedient on transfer of $1628 to police account for 1902.

ORDINANCES: (Majority), recommending amendment to ordinance relating to acceptance of streets.

POLICE: Recommending increase of reserve force to 13, and recommending one additional regular and one additional reserve officer for 1902.

The following reports were accepted: AUDITING: Relative to bills for November.

RECESS.

A recess was then taken for a meeting of the street light committee, and upon reassembling the following reports from that committee were accepted: referring certain street light petitions on Hillside avenue, Jerome avenue and Marlboro street to next city government; no action necessary on petition of telephone company for pole location on Pleasant street, and recommending the granting of certain petitions of the telephone and gas companies.

STREET ORDINANCE.

The amendment to the ordinance relative to acceptance of streets was then taken up. Alderman Weed said that the purpose of the amendment was simply to permit the board to consider the acceptance of streets, which had been constructed prior to the adoption of the present ordinance. He believed the change was desirable, as there were a number of streets which under the present ordinance could not even be considered. Nonantum has many unaccepted streets built 30 or 40 years ago, which have been built up, and used as thoroughfares. Many have been seized for sewer purposes. In this list are some which are meritorious, and which the amendment will allow the board to consider. The interests of good streets are guarded by the amendment as it would require 14 votes for such consideration.

Alderman Hutchinson said that the present ordinance regulates width since 1874, although that is not so important as proper grading and drainage. This proposed change has been considered since February, and if passed will eliminate all specifications upon streets built before 1896, regardless of width, drainage or grading. It was unwise to lay the city open to accept over 300 unaccepted streets. The present appropriations are hardly sufficient to care for the 137 miles of accepted streets. The abutments on these unaccepted streets bought their land with their eyes open and at a low figure. He believed the city had power to build any of these meritorious streets now. Alderman Saltonstall believed that the city had the right under the present ordinance to lay out streets and believed that it should be done on such streets in Nonantum where the abutments were 'too poor to place them in proper condition. Nonantum, however, was not the whole city, and the amendment would throw open for acceptance many miles of streets laid out for speculation purposes. The alderman spoke in warm praise of Newton streets and believed they should be kept up to the present standard.

City Solicitor Slocum, when called upon said that the ordinance only governed the conduct of the board and could be waived by the aldermen. It only covered streets laid out by private owners, and did not apply to those laid out by the city. Alderman Lathrop believed the present ordinance had had a splendid effect on the streets of the city. He called attention to Pine Ridge road, whose acceptance without drainage would cost about $3,100 to rectify.

Alderman Weed said the discussion was on results and not on the merits of the amendment. He had confidence that future aldermen would only consider meritorious streets.

Alderman Ensign hoped some relief could be granted to Nonantum streets, but opposed the amendment as too broad.

Alderman Saltonstall thought that meritorious cases can be accepted under present ordinance while others are barred.

Alderman Hutchinson said that if amendment passes owners will first petition city for action.

Alderman Weeks opposed the amendments not on the merits of the question but he did not believe the city should bear any expense of preparing such streets for acceptance.

On motion of Alderman Ensign the matter was then recommitted.

The ordinance relative to removal of snow from sidewalks in Ward 3, Precinct 2, was then passed to be ordained.

ORDERS.

Orders granting $47,433.49 for city expenses to Dec. 31 and $10,192 for city expenses between Jan. 1-15 were adopted, the rules requiring printing having been suspended.

Orders declaring the result of the city election of Dec. 10th; making the following additional appropriations, state aid, $123.00; board of printing, $18.50; poor out of almshouse, $334.30; public property, $150.20; armory expenses, $8.01; registration of voters, $371.56; general repairs, $179.56; parks, $9.46; transferring items amounting to $259.50 from various accounts to that for public property; authorizing transfer to 1902 of the appropriation of Tremont street drain, $7,300; Hyde Brook drain, $3,412.01; Newtonville library, $1,000; Cheese Cake brook, $1,500; appropriating $36,173 for interest due Jan. 1, 1902; $350 for settlement of claim of Jeremiah Gallagher; $524.53 for settlement of claim of Elizabeth J. Simpson; granting Telephone Co. pole locations in Walker and Central streets; attachments on Crystal street, Crescent avenue, Washington street, Ward 3, and Otis street, Ward 3, and granting Gas Co. attachments on Dudley street; laying out of Court street and widening Sumner street were also adopted.

An order increasing the reserve police force to 13 was considered. Alderman Norris said that additional men were needed at Hammond pond during the skating season, and the Upper Falls also wants an officer after midnight.

Alderman Weeks said the matter had been considered with the budget and an increase disapproved. The item for temporary police service of $1500 could cover the Hammond pond matter and the finance committee hoped that both districts could be covered properly under present appropriations. It was simply a question of making the best disposition of the present force.

Alderman Chesley said that the Upper Falls with its large foreign element deserved more police protection.

Alderman Weed said that the finance committee felt that these villages deserved more police protection, but desired the new mayor to first investigate the matter.

The order and accompanying petitions were then referred to the consideration of the next mayor.

An order transferring $1628 to the police appropriation for 1902 for new officers was then considered, amended by striking out the words relating to the new officers and adopted.

DINNER.

On motion of Alderman Pulsifer a committee consisting of Aldermen Pulsifer, Trowbridge and Saltonstall was then appointed to arrange for an aldermanic dinner in January, and on motion of Alderman Weed were granted full discretion in every particular, except as to toastmaster.

For this post, Alderman Weed declared that the board demanded President Bailey.

And the board then adjourned to Dec. 23rd, at 7.45 p. m.

DISPUTE OVER BUNDLE.

SAID TO BE CAUSE OF AN ASSAULT UPON WM. H. EMERSON AT NEWTONVILLE SATURDAY NIGHT.

A controversy, said to have arisen over a C O D bundle, took place in Newtonville, last Saturday night between William H. Emerson, aged 29, a Newtonville expressman, and Michael Shanahan, aged 42, a Newtonville milkman, and as a result Emerson was seriously injured. He sustained a fractured skull in some manner unknown as yet, but according to the police it was a weapon in the hands of Shanahan.

The story is that Emerson went to Shanahan's home about 7 p. m. to deliver a bundle. A dispute arose, either about the tardiness of the delivery of the bundle or the charges, and blows were struck.

Emerson, who has been unable to give a complete story as yet, told, shortly after he was struck, that after an altercation at Shanahan's house he was set upon by several men. After relating this story about 7.30 Saturday evening at the home of his father-in-law, State Detective George Dunham, at Newtonville, Emerson fainted and was unconscious for about twelve hours. His condition since has been serious.

Shanahan told Chief Tarbox that Emerson called him a vile name and followed it up with a blow from an iron hinge, four and one-half feet in length. Shanahan said he saved himself by throwing the blow to one side with his arm. His arm, he said, was injured. He admitted that he struck Emerson with his fist.

Investigation was made by the police and considerable evidence, it is said, was secured.

Shanahan was arraigned in the police court Monday morning, charged by the arresting officer, Sergt. John Purcell, with assault with a dangerous weapon.

After consulting the attending physician, Dr. Baker, of Newtonville, concerning Emerson's condition, Judge Kennedy decided to continue the case until Tuesday, Dec. 31. Shanahan was held in $10,000 and found no difficulty in furnishing sureties. James J. Murphy, aged 36, employed by Shanahan, was held in $400 as a witness.

THE ENTERTAINMENT CLUB.

BRINGS ITS SEASON WITH CHUMS AND POOR PILLICODDY TO AN ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE.

The Entertainment Club made a capital beginning of its season's work last Tuesday evening in the parlors of the Channing church.

The Club was assisted by "The Thespians" of Newton Centre, who presented the farce entitled "Chums," with the following cast:

Mr. Bredt, a Vermont squire, Mr. H. H. Day
Harry Bredt, A. B. H. son, Mr. A. B. Rice
Tom Burnham, leading lady, Chums, Flora Strong, Mr. Bredt's niece,
Miss Lillian Riddick
Mrs. Bredt, Mr. Bredt's wife, Mr. Bredt's wife, Scene: Shilling-moon at Mr. Bredt's, Broad-ville, Vt. Time: The present.

The beginning was a little stiff but the capital work of Mr. C. F. Miller as Tom Burnham, soon rectified the matter. Mr. Miller's singing was a very effective feature, and his make-up was excellent. Good work was also done by Miss Rice, and the other members of the cast.

The Entertainment Club, itself played "Poor Pillicoddy" with this cast:

Mr. Ernest W. Wright
Capt. O'Scullin, Mr. Leverett D. G. Bentley
Mrs. Pillicoddy, Miss Florence W. Hill
Mrs. O'Scullin, Miss Ethel Ford
Sarah Blount, Mrs. Ralph W. Bartlett Scene: Interior of Pillicoddy's flower and seed shop. Under the direction of Mr. Ernest W. Wright.

Mr. Wright, always a favorite with a Newton audience, was at his best on this occasion. His attacks of heart disease, fits of madness and assumed drowsiness were cleverly done and heartily applauded.

Mr. Bentley, who took the part of Capt. O'Scullin at short notice, made a decided hit as a sailor. His make-up, rolling gait and husky voice were more than excellent. Mrs. E. Bartlett, as Sarah Blount, rendered her part with ability and the minor parts taken by Miss Hills and Miss Ford also showed conscientious work.

The stage setting in both plays entitles Mr. R. W. Bartlett and Mr. B. L. Goodwin, stage manager and assistant to great credit, and the costumes and makeups were also in excellent taste.

A feature of the evening which did not appear to receive the attention it fully merited was the violin playing by Mr. Joseph W. Howard.

The audience was thoroughly appreciative of the efforts of the Club and its guests, and applause was frequent and spontaneous.

The next entertainment by the Club will occur on Jan. 14th.

A. J. Snell wanted to attend a party but was afraid to do so on account of pains in his stomach, which he feared would grow worse. He says, "I was telling my troubles to a lady friend, who said: 'Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy will put you in condition for the party.' I bought a bottle and took pleasure in stating that two doses cured me and enabled me to have a good time at the party." Mr. Snell is a resident of Summer Hill, N. Y. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Annual Reception of the Federation.

The Newton Federation of Women's Clubs held a reception in Temple hall, Masonic building, Newtonville, Thursday afternoon, December twelfth, that proved to be artistically and socially its greatest success.

The attractiveness of the hall was heightened by groupings of palms, and by the charming arrangement of the tea table, with its crimson decorations in flowers, candle shades, ribbons, and the berries of the holly, all indicative of the advent of the Christmas season. Rich India rugs adorned the floor. The handsome gowns and animated faces of several hundred of the club women of Newton completed the beauty of the picture.

"Minglers" distinguished by crimson flowers, added greatly to the enjoyment of the occasion; and the uniring ushers faithfully performed an almost continuous duty in presenting the many guests to the long receiving lines composed of the following ladies:

First line, Mrs. Augusta L. Carter, president of the Federation; Mrs. M. Louise Sylvester, president of the Newton Centre Woman's Club; Mrs. Anna L. Bailey, president of the West Newton Women's Educational Club; Mrs. Julia A. Hollings, president of the Newtonville Women's Guild; Mrs. Orinda D. Hornbrook, acting president of the Social Science Club; Mrs. Ruth C. Jones, president of the Ladies' Home Circle; Mrs. Adelaide E. Miller, president of the Waban Woman's Club; Mrs. George D. Harvey, president of the Review Club; Mrs. Helen B. Chapman, president of the West End Literary Club; and Mrs. Lizzie T. Billings, president of the Pierian Club.

Second line, Mrs. Minerva C. Stone, first vice-president of the Federation; Mrs. Kathleen M. Phipps, Mrs. Elona N. Walton and Mrs. Mary A. Fleaunet, ex-presidents of the Federation; Mrs. Mabel R. Boyden, ex-secretary and Mrs. Grace P. Farquhar, recording secretary; Mrs. Georgietta Hadlock, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Alice A. Gould, auditor of the Federation.

The hostesses of the afternoon were members from the ten clubs of the Federation and included the chairmen of the social committees, as follows: Mrs. Marietta S. Clifford, Mrs. Mary C. Blakenore, Mrs. C. H. Corken, Mrs. F. S. Sherman, M. G. E. Keyes, Mrs. G. B. Moulton, Mrs. A. L. Everett, Mrs. M. A. Blanchard, Miss Edith Kemp and Mrs. Edward Almy.

The admirable plans, fluently carried out were in charge of the social committee, Mrs. Anna L. Bailey, chairman.

The arrangement of the tables was an original design by Mrs. Alvin H. Clifford, chairman of the hall and decoration committee.

Atwood's orchestra furnished the music. Mrs. Augusta L. Carter, president of the Federation, presided graciously and with dignity at a short business session, when the motion, "That the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs join the Massachusetts State Federation," was carried unanimously.

Three petitions of like tenor and wording from the Social Science Club, addressed respectively to the presidents of the Boston Elevated Railway Co., the Massachusetts Electric Railway Co., and the Commonwealth Avenue Street Railway, were presented by Mrs. Francis B. Hornbrook, and received many signatures.

The petitions were as follows: "In view of the increase of contagious diseases in Boston and vicinity, our crowded cars and the consequent accumulation of noxious air therein, we, the undersigned members of the Social Science Club of Newton and others, petition that the cars be thoroughly ventilated at the end of each route by leaving the doors and windows open, for at least five minutes, and using a disinfectant; also that the ventilators be left open at all times, when patrons will permit."

Letter to J. H. Nickerson,

West Newton.
Dear Sir: The late president of the Croton River Bank, at Brewsters, N. Y., built the finest house in all that region, in 1884, and painted it with lead and oil at a cost of $400—the house cost $31,000. In 1887—three years—he repainted it with Devco at a cost of $350. In 1897 this paint was in good condition.

Lead and oil, $400, three years. Devco $350, ten years.

Yours truly,
F. W. Devco & Co.

NEWTON CLUB.

After winning two straight games last Friday night from Charlestown, in fine style, the Newton team took a bad slump and gave away the third string by only 4 pins. The usually reliable Pray was clear off his game, and a fine chance at a record figure was thereby lost.

Four Newton men and three Charles townites landed in the honor class for the week. The honor mark for the night went to Kenney, who rolled a very keen game, and got 583 for total. Hutchinson led the Newton team with 579.

Newton won the match very largely on its superior first ball work. As usual it got a lot of strikes.

Whitlsey-Plimpton

Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Willard P. Plimpton of Chestnut street, West Newton, was solemnized the marriage of their daughter, Miss Florence W. and Chap. H. Whitlsey of Canton. The ceremony was performed at 730 by Rev. Julian C. Jaynes, pastor of West Newton Unitarian church. The best men were Walter L. Plimpton and the groomsmen were Alexander Wright, W. L. Plimpton and S. F. Newhall. Following the ceremony a largely attended reception was held.

FIRST SERMON LAST SUNDAY.

REV. MORGAN MILLAR BEGINS PASTORATE AT THE NEWTON CENTRE UNITARIAN CHURCH.

The Rev. Morgan Millar, who has recently accepted a call to the Newton Centre Unitarian church, occupied the pulpit of that edifice last Sunday morning for the first time as pastor of the church.

In spite of the severity of the weather, he was greeted by a good-sized congregation.

Rev. Mr. Millar took as the text for his sermon, Prov. 22:28: "Remove not the ancient landmark which thy father set," and said that these landmarks in the Eastern world were set up as marking the foundation of the home and life of the nation, and so fundamental were they regarded, that any man attempting to remove them was to be treated as an enemy of the social order. These piles of stones define the rights, hopes, duties and aims of a nation. It was upon these heaps of stones that the great leader Moses placed his finger as the mile posts that stretched along the road to eternity.

This week we celebrate Forefather's Day and our mind wanders back to that bleak hill not so very far from here. It also recalls Plymouth Rock, an old stone, but standing in our minds as of the greatest human significance.

Our president, Roosevelt, has marked out the four fundamental qualities needed for our national existence, strong bodies, good minds, stout hearts and a firm purpose to do the right. Here we have arrayed the strength of the past, the need of the present and the hope of the future.

Whist.

The following comments upon the lead from a five card suit, even though headed by nothing better than a knave or ten, are by Mr. Fisher Ames:

"The reasons for this method of play are no doubt familiar to most of our readers, but bearing in mind that there are many comparatively new players who may have learned in the recently prevalent school of somewhat haphazard play, and some who are even now beginning and who read this column with a desire to learn, we venture to repeat the familiar argument. Old as it is, we believe it is unanswerable as an argument. Many deals may be and recently have been triumphantly pointed out where the argument and the play based upon it have failed, and irregular play has shown a gain in tricks. This must be admitted. Whist is a game of almost infinite variety, with an almost incalculable number of different distributions of the cards. Among them must be many hands which the regular rules do not fit. But it is not claimed by anyone that the rules fit every case. They are made upon the basis of averages merely, and to fit the great majority of deals and that is the only basis upon which reasoning can be properly made. The life of any one individual is a very uncertain thing, but the average life of a large aggregation of individuals is a matter of mathematical computation of such certainty as to render the business of life insurance safe and profitable. The same principle applies to whist rules. They are safe and profitable as applied to the great aggregation of deals, although single instances may appear to contradict them. The reasons for the long suit lead are as follows. There are three ways in which tricks are taken at whist, first, by high cards, second by trumping a plain suit, third by the 'long' card of an established suit, that is, a card or cards in a plain suit, in one hand, none of the suit being in the other hands. The first two methods of trick taking cannot be played for. They depend almost exclusively on the chance distribution of the cards. The third method is usually the result of systematic play. Of course, the holding of those extra cards is a matter of chance, but the bringing them in, making them good for tricks, depends principally upon good management. With a good suit, the player's object is to make it good—establish it and bring it in. If you hold five cards of a suit, the remaining eight are divided among the other three players. They may be divided in any way; one may hold them all or five or six of them. But in calculating a basis for a rule you must take the average, and that would give one of the other players two and the others three apiece, so that on the average, after the suit has gone round three times, you will hold two long cards, each good for a trick, provided you have the lead and there are no trump cards. To accomplish this result for one side, or the other is what gives the chief interest to the play in each deal. One likes to save his king or queen from a higher card, and can sometimes manoeuvre so as to accomplish this, but that is more incident. The two sides play usually to make each their best long suit. The contest very frequently results in more or less of a compromise, for long suits frequently are defeated by superior trump strength, or one side may have a much better suit than the other. But the contest is what makes the game.

When one holds a five card suit there is always a good chance that it can be established, and it is customary and profitable to begin upon it at once. The lead of a strengthening card may do good, but the chances are in favor of the trick going to the adversaries, for partner will usually pass a high card, and there are two adversaries to one partner. If one is weak in trumps and leads a two-card suit or a singleton in the hope of getting a ruff, the chances are two to one or greater against partner winning the trick, and as the purpose of the play will usually be to support the adversary in the lead will be very apt to lead trumps and thus deprive you of the chance of ruffing, which perhaps you might have had if you had opened your long suit first instead. A "snack" lead occasionally brings a gain, but it is more apt to bring a loss. If it is a low card and partner wins the trick, he may be misled into thinking it is your long suit and lose tricks by playing the hand under this mistake. If it is a high card an adversary will probably win it, as already stated, and draw trumps. The reasons above given apply equally well to the trump suit as to plain suits, and in the long run it will pay to lead trumps when you hold five of them. It has been somewhat the fashion of late years to question this rule, but we believe as a general rule it is a sound and good one."

McClough-Souls

An attractive home wedding Wednesday evening was that of Miss Maude Ellen Souls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Souls, to Mr. Malcolm Allen McClough of Waltham, which took place in the prettily decorated parlors of the Souls home in the Whitman apartments on Centre street. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a becoming travelling gown of brown broadcloth, with trimmings of white satin and duchess lace. She carried a spray of bride roses. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Frank B. Matthews, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church. Mr. William I. McClough, brother of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Charles Elder of Newton, and Mr. Harry Knowlton of Allston. The ceremony was followed by a reception. Mr. A. R. Hersom was the caterer. Mr. and Mrs. McClough left on a wedding trip and at its conclusion they will make their home on Jewett street.

We can supply you with engraved wedding, at home and calling cards at very reasonable prices.

SILENCE!

The instinct of modesty natural to every woman is often a great hindrance to the cure of womanly diseases. Women shrink from the personal questions of the local physician which seem indelicate. The thought of examination is abhorrent to them, and so they endure in silence a condition of disease which surely progresses from bad to worse.

It has been Dr. Pierce's privilege to cure a great many women who have found a refuge for modesty in his office of free consultation by letter. All correspondence is held as strictly private and is confidential. Address Doctor R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

"Having used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription" during the past year," writes Mrs. Mattie Long, of Flout Valley, Perry Co., Pa. "I can truthfully recommend these medicines for all female weaknesses. I have used several bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' which I consider a great blessing to weak women. I was so nervous and discouraged that I hardly knew what to do. Your kind advice for home treatment helped me wonderfully. Thanks to Dr. Pierce."

Biliousness is cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

Grand Army Carnival.

THE BOYS OF '61.

Much interest is being aroused in the Grand Army Carnival and Fair to be held in Temple hall, Feb. 4-8 next.

The Newton Centre Women's Club have taken the matter up with much enthusiasm.

The Newton Ladies Home Circle have voted to have a table in the Fair, and the ladies of Ward 4 will meet on Thursday evening of next week for organization.

In the other Wards the work of organization is progressing favorably. It is anticipated that this will be one of the most attractive and successful Fairs ever held in Newton, and that the good people of the Garden City will again put the Veterans under obligations to them by their generous contributions of articles for the tables.

The Hon. Henry E. Cobb will act as chief marshal, and on the opening night, Feb. 4th, it is expected that Lt. Gov. Bates, Mayor Weeks, Department Commander Barton and other dignitaries will be present.

The following committees are in charge:

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quick medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

Literary Notes.

The January "National Magazine" of Boston will contain the first of a series of articles by Senator Mark Hanna of Ohio on the career of his friend, the late President William McKinley. No other man was so warmly devoted to McKinley or so closely in touch with him. These articles will embody the Senator's estimate of his friend's character and life work, and give many interesting incidents of his career. They will be the most widely read and authoritative contributions on this subject, which is of the proudest interest to all patriotic Americans. "The National" is a first class American News Magazine, its stories are strong, its pictures of men and women of the day many and timely, its "Affairs at Washington" unique. Those who are not subscribers can obtain the January number by sending 10 cents in stamps to the W. W. Potter Co., Publishers, 41 West First Street, Boston. Annual subscriptions, covering the entire series, $1.

If you would have an appetite like a bear and a relish for your meals take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They correct disorders of the stomach and regulate the liver and bowels. Price 25 cents. At all druggists.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

Boston Museum—All too soon must "Sky Farm," that most clever, rural drama leave the stage of the Boston Museum where it has been presented to three months of great and delighted audiences. In its entirety "Sky Farm" is much more than clever; it is fascinating, diverting, clean, sweet, pretty, uplifting and picturesque to an astounding degree in all its factors. The phrases of praise might well be exhausted in sounding its merits throughout the length and breadth of the land. There is no hesitation in saying that it has never been surpassed by any play of its kind and probably never equalled.

The best that can now be said about "Sky Farm" is that everybody in New England at least should see it. It can only remain at the Boston Museum for the week beginning December 23rd with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. This is positive.

Children's Theatre—No more sincere praise could be wished for than that which is heard from the children who have attended the Christmas party of Little Miss Muffet now being given at the Children's Theatre, Huntington Chambers, 30 Huntington avenue, Boston. The management has received numerous letters from children in all parts of the city and surrounding suburbs. Some of them are gems of childish thought in themselves and all are very interesting. Miss Margaret MacLaren Eager, who conducts the theatre, has decided to give a prize of $10 in gold to the child writing the best story that can be made over into a play and be given at the Children's Theatre. Full particulars may be obtained by addressing the Children's Theatre. During Christmas week matinees will be given on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 2.30 o'clock. The usual Tuesday matinee will not be given.

George G. Manning.

George G. Manning died at his residence in Newton, Saturday morning after a short illness. Two years and a half ago he had a severe shock of paralysis and had been an invalid since that time and unable to do any business.

Mr. Manning was born in Paxton, Oct. 20, 1842. He was the son of the late David and Lucy (Grosvenor) Manning. He came with his parents to Worcester in his childhood and lived there until about three years ago, when he removed to Newton, where he has since lived. He was educated in the public schools of Worcester, entering into the boot and shoe business upon leaving the High school. He was a member of the well known firm of Manning Bros., which for many years carried on the wholesale boot and shoe business in Worcester, and at the time of his death was a member of the firm of Manning Shoe & Rubber Company, doing business in Boston.

He has always enjoyed an enviable reputation as an honorable and successful business man and has merited and received the respect and affection of all who have known him on account of his sterling character and his uniform consideration for, and kindness to others.

He was of a retiring disposition, devoted to his family and friends. While in Worcester he was an active member of Plymouth church, serving many years on the music committee. He was a man of deep and strong convictions upon religious and political questions, and controlled to a rare degree by a sense of duty, yet so temperate by a kindly disposition as not to offend. He leaves to his family and friends as a choice legacy the record of a good and noble life.

He leaves a widow, Ellen (Moore) Manning, one son, Roger Manning, and three brothers, Senator David Manning of Worcester, and C. Walter Manning and Joseph A. Manning, both of Boston. His sister, Mrs. Joseph A. Titus and his brother, Theodore Manning, both died a few years ago.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of his brother, Senator David Manning in Worcester. The body was taken to Worcester from Newton, where prayers had been held Monday afternoon, at his late residence.

The services at both places were conducted by Rev. Dr. William H. Davis of the Eliot church.

The bearers were the six nephews of Mr. Manning, Walter W. Manning, Earle Manning, Fred Manning, Chas. Manning, J. Nelson Manning and Alexander B. Manning. There were many floral tributes, including pieces from employees of the Manning Shoe & Rubber Company, and the Boston Rubber Shoe Company. Burial was in Rural cemetery.

A Good Cough Medicine.

[From the Gazette, Toowoomba, Australia.]

I find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an excellent medicine. I have been suffering from a severe cough for the last two months, and it has effected a cure. I have great pleasure in recommending it.—W. C. Wockner.

This is the opinion of one of our oldest and most respected residents, and has been voluntarily given in good faith that others may try the remedy and be benefited as was Mr. Wockner. This remedy is sold by all druggists.

SCHOOL BOARD.

Final Meeting Of 1901 Members.

Teachers to Guard Health of Pupils.

So far as its official existence is concerned the school board of 1901 is about to pass into oblivion. Wednesday evening's meeting of that body marked the beginning of the end and was probably the last time the entire board will sit together in combined deliberation, eloquence and elucidation.

As the meeting was drawing to a close there came a spirit of good fellowship, which declared itself in a happy exchange of pleasantries and served to lighten the enjoyment of a spread served to the board members as Mr. Daniel Dewey's guests.

Following the roll call came the appointment of Edith B. Schuyler as an assistant in the Mason school, Newton Centre, at a salary of $600.

Superintendent Fifield had no report but submitted his annual report, which was accepted without reading.

On recommendation of the committee on school houses an order was adopted requesting the city government to install gas in the school department's offices at Newtonville.

Then came the reading of the annual report. Mr. Howes took just five and one-half minutes of the board's time in offering its contents, but there was a twenty-minute discussion all because Mr. Rand of Ward 6 thought the attitude of the board on the matter of athletics in the public schools was too strongly expressed. The report showed the board opposed to overtraining in school athletics and favored the employment of a physical director.

Nearly every member said something on the subject, quoting opinions of experts and expressing their own ideas on the subject.

At length it was decided that the report should be amended so that the board was favorable to a proper supervision of all athletics, without committing itself in favor of employing an instructor.

"How to Read" was the subject of an address to the board by Mr. Abbot Bassett, who said that the very question applied to pupils of Newton schools, was his pet hobby. He read the report of an investigation made at his request by Miss Cannon, instructor in calisthenics and elocution, which showed that the attention paid to the elocutionary and dramatic effect in the class reading of literature, was not what the lovers of good effect might desire. It was decided to refer the question to the next board.

Myra J. Billings resigned as a teacher in the Horace Mann school and Ina M. Stevens as a teacher in the Mason school.

No action was deemed necessary on the proposed changing of the Bigelow district lines. The board was informed by the special committee appointed to consider the subject that the interurban street railway lines had come to terms regarding the issuing of transportation tickets for pupils.

An amendment to the rules, laid over from last meeting, to the effect that teachers shall observe each day the physical condition of pupils and all those suffering from sore throat, loss of voice and skin eruptions, shall be sent home, was offered by the committee on rules.

There was some discussion as to whether this rule was too obligatory. It was shown that this was deemed as good a substitute as could be suggested in view of the city government's failure to provide a sufficient appropriation for medical inspection. The amendment was adopted.

When Mr. Dewey arose, to offer as chairman of the finance committee, an order appropriating $17,852 to cover the December department expenses he remarked, with a characteristic smile, "This is positively my last appearance." This was greeted with a hearty laugh.

After the last matter of routine business had been disposed of, Mr. Gorham moved that Chairman Benner be extended a vote of thanks. Mr. Dewey seconded it. It was then carried.

In a very interesting though brief resume of the year Mr. Benner accepted of the compliment and his remarks were applauded.

The Twentieth Century

The advent of the new century is to be commemorated by the Newton Graphic in the publication of a handsomely bound volume, entitled, "Newton, The Garden City of the Commonwealth, 1874-1901." It will contain valuable and interesting historical matter, fully illustrated, and will tell of leading events, characters and progress of the city, and the many advantages of Newton as a beautiful and desirable place of residence will be fully shown. The volume will also contain the portraits and biographies of representative men who, in their lives, their work or their influence have made Newton of to-day the garden city of the Commonwealth and of New England.

It is believed that such a work will commend itself to the citizens of Newton as bringing together a carefully collated record of the lives of men who have contributed to the welfare of our city; men of whom we are justly proud as educators, lawyers, physicians, clergymen and men of affairs.

Such a publication at this time will give to the present, an up to date account of the city and will bequeath to the future a legacy of what Newton was at the beginning of what promises to be a most remarkable century.

Copies of the book will be sent to the prominent institutions of learning, libraries and clubs of New England and New York.

THE STIRRUP CUP.

My short and happy day is done,
The long and lonely night comes on,
And at my door the pale horse stands
To carry me to unknown lands.

His whinny shrill, his passing hoof,
Sound dreadful as a gathering storm,
And I must leave this sheltering roof
And joys of life so soft and warm.

Tender and warm the joys of life:
Good friends, the faithful and the true;
My rosy children and my wife,
So sweet to kiss, so fair to view.

So sweet to kiss, so fair to view:
The night comes on, the light burn blue,
And at my door the pale horse stands
To bear me forth to unknown lands.

—John Hay.

A NOVEL HOTEL BILL.

The Man to Whom It Was Presented Could Not Understand It.

"Talking about bookkeeping, there used to be a man in Yankton whose system of bookkeeping accounts was wonderfully efficient. He kept a hotel, and he could neither read nor write. He did not know how to spell his own name, but he did a thriving business and collected every dollar of his accounts. Once, years ago, when I first came to this country, I went to his hotel and stopped there two weeks," writes Milt Brinben.

"When I left, he presented me with a statement of what I owed him, and it was a curiosity. He had copied it from his ledger. At the top of the sheet there was a rude picture of a soldier on the march and after it three straight marks. Then there was a scene showing a man at table eating. Then appeared a bed with a man in it. In the amount column there was a picture of a doll and after it the two letters 'RS.' After the picture of a man eating there were forty-two marks; after the view of the man in the bed, fourteen marks. I looked at the account, then at the proprietor, and told him it would take me a week to answer that conundrum.

"It was completely stumped, and when that hotel man deciphered the amount for me it was this: The picture of the soldier walking meant march, and the three marks supplied the date, March 3, when I began boarding. The man at the table with forty-two marks after it indicated that I had eaten forty-two meals. The man in bed with fourteen marks showed that I had slept in the house forty-two nights. The doll with the 'RS' after it meant 'dollars,' and in the figure columns appeared the figures 14, which was the amount I owed him. And it was a true bill."—Yankton Press.

A Persian Barber.

A Persian barber works in a style very different from that in vogue in this country. A typical shop is a square room, with one side open to the street. In the center is a tiny bed of flowers sunk in the floor, from the middle of which rises an octagonal stone column about three feet high.

The capital of the column forms a receptacle for the water in which the barber dips his hand as he shaves his customer's scalp. In Persia they do not lather. The shop is very clean. In two recesses stand four vases filled with flowers and the implements of the barber's art—scissors, razors, lancets, hand mirrors, large pincers to extract teeth, branding irons to cauterize the arteries in amputating limbs, strong combs, but not a hairbrush, for that implement is never used by Persians.

From the barber's grille hang a round copper water bottle, his strop, and a pouch to hold his instruments. In his bosom is a small mirror, the presentation of which to his customers is a sign that the job is finished and that the barber waits for his pay. The barber shaves the heads of his customers, dyes their beards, pulls their teeth, blisters and bleeds them when ailing, sets their broken bones and shampoos their bodies.—Exchange.

Strange Lapse of Memory.

Cases of forgetfulness on matters of interest are on record. While Dr. Priestley was preparing his work entitled "Harmony of the Gospels" he had taken great pains to inform himself on a subject which had been under discussion relative to the Jewish Passover. He wrote out the result of his researches and laid the paper away. His attention and time being taken with something else, some little time elapsed before the subject occurred to his mind again. Then the same time and pains were given to the subject that had been given to it before, and the results were again put on paper and laid aside. So completely had he forgotten that he had copied the same paragraphs and reflections before that it was only when he had found the papers on which he had transcribed them that it was recalled to his recollection. This same author had frequently read his own published writings and did not recognize them.

To Investors

Who are seeking an investment that combines both safety and dividend-paying power.

A company incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey and established eight years, with offices in New York and Boston, doing a business that is an absolute monopoly, protected by United States and foreign patents, are offering a limited amount of their stock to New England investors. The stock of this company has never been offered for sale before, but owing to rapidly increasing business and the desirability to add to their facilities. Write for particulars and learn what we have to offer, at once, as we have but a limited amount to dispose of. This is no stock-jobbing scheme, but a legitimate business proposition worthy of your attention.

Newton and Watertown Gaslight Co.'s New Quarters

The Newton and Watertown Gas Light Company moved this week into their new and commodious building on Washington street, opposite Bacon street.

The old bank building which has been remodelled for the use of the Gas Co., would never be recognized in the present structure of buff brick and modern equipments.

The front of the building with its fine plate glass windows, bearing the company's name in gilt on a black background is very attractive, and within is still more so.

The counting room and main office is at the left of the entrance and is finished in rich quartered oak with a mosaic floor and marble mop boards. Inside the counter is plenty of room for the clerks, and the treasurer and superintendent occupy a private office at the rear, and which has a separate entrance from the rear of the building. The only part of the bank building left standing, has been utilized for the directors' room and is to be thoroughly refurnished.

At the right of the main entrance is a good sized room for storage and other purposes, through which an elevator runs from the basement to the second floor. From this room are the toilet and coat rooms. Upstairs are two large rooms, one of which will be utilized for exhibition purposes and the other for purposes of meter and supply storage. In the basement are the testing rooms and work shop.

The building is heated with two large furnaces and lighted throughout with electricity.

Every room also has electrical connections for power to be used for fans or other purposes.

Mr. Jacob Frazier of Watertown has been appointed the janitor of the new building.

The speaker for the first Sunday of the New Year will be Rev. Robert K. Smith of Grace Episcopal church.

The boys and girls Bible class is growing. Every boy and girl who loves the study of the Bible should come to this class conducted by Secretary Lincoln each Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The General Secretary of the Association wishes to all the friends of the Association a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Letter to Brackett Market Co.

Newton.

Dear Sirs: Porterhouse, so much; neck, so much; all the way between. Just so with paint. Devote lead and zinc is the porterhouse. Nobody wants the neck; the between, some say, is good enough for them.

But Devote costs less, not more, than between. Lead and oil is between; it is the old-fashioned paint. But zinc has come in. Zinc toughens white lead. Devote lead and zinc is the paint.

If you paint in three years, you do it for looks. Devote does not wear out in three years.

Yours truly,

F. W. Devote & Co.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Important Street Railway Matters Heard And Granted.

Radical Changes Made in Committees and Minor Financial Orders Adopted.

Immediately after the board of aldermen was called to order at 7.45 by Pres. Baily last Monday evening, hearings were given on the petitions of the Commonwealth avenue street railway to connect its tracks on Commonwealth avenue with those on Lexington street, Walnut street and Washington street and also upon the petition of the Wellesley & Boston street railway company for double tracks from the Washington street bridge, West Newton, westerly to Commonwealth avenue.

President Adams D. Claffin of these roads said that the connections proposed were planned that a car might be run directly from Upper Falls to Boston, another from Newtonville to Auburndale, another from Newton to Auburndale, another from Auburndale to Lower Falls, another from Auburndale square to any point in the city and another from the boulevard, east or west, to Waltham. In all cases the streets were sufficiently wide. He had heard no protests. He urged the need of the double track from the Washington street bridge, West Newton, to the boulevard, saying that the whole plan was proposed that persons might get a car some time during the hour from any part of the city to another without transferring. He said, too, that there had been a request that the old line from Newtonville square to Lake street be reopened. He said that it was planned to run the Crafts street cars over this route and meet this demand.

At this time the hearing was closed though at a later period in the evening, Mr. Ludwig Gerhard appeared and in a communication, read by Pres. Baily, protested. He set forth that there should be a number of conditions imposed to the effect that transfers be granted upon school children's tickets, to those who forget to ask at the time of paying their fares, and to run a car from Newton Highlands to the Boston subway. He told of his interviews with the heads of the road and presented a plan whereby it was practical in his mind, for a car to be run from Newton Highlands to the subway in Boston.

A communication was received from the school board requesting that gas be introduced into the board rooms and superintendent's office of the old Claffin building, Newtonville, and referred to the public property committee.

The report of the city engineer relative to the numbering of certain streets was submitted and accepted.

A bill was received from the city of Cambridge claiming $70.71 for the care and treatment at the Cambridge hospital of Edward P. Drohan of Newton, and referred to the claims committee.

A petition was received requesting the board to reject the licenses of Abraham Trackman, Philip Rosenbaum, H. Schriberg, Jacob Bressler and Abram Greewald. The petitioners, whose names were not given, asked that they be granted a hearing. In connection with this was a petition signed by more than a dozen junk dealers who requested the board to give them a hearing on matters pertaining to their business. The matter was referred to the license committee.

Reports of the highway committee recommending edgestones on River and Pine streets, Ward 4, and recommending award of $75 on account of Hammond road were received. A report recommending reference to the next government of petition for crosswalk on Woodward street was accepted.

The same committee recommended leave to withdraw on petitions for acceptance of Plainfield street, Ward 5, Stone avenue, Ward 6, Lee avenue, Ward 6, Westbourne road, Ward 6, Kensington street, Ward 3, Orris street, Ward 4 and Adams avenue, Ward 3, Accepted.

The committee on journal reported approving the records of the board to date. Accepted.

The license committee reported leave to withdraw on petition of Michael Hughes for junk license and Biago Dinambro for street musician's license, and recommending an intelligence office license to Rose M. Wallace. Accepted.

The committee on sewers recommended reference to the next city government of the matter of connecting Wade school with a sewer, reference to public property committee of matters relating to Wade and Hyde school houses. Accepted.

The street railway committee reported: Recommending granting Commonwealth avenue street railway company connections between Commonwealth avenue and Lexington street, Walnut street, Washington street; recommending reference to next city government of matters relating to Nonantum square; double tracking of Washington street, (W. & B. St. Ry. Co.) remonstrance of residents of Waban against street railway.

Prior to the street railway committee's report the board took a recess from 8.05 until 9.12.

The committee on legislation reported recommending that the mayor be requested to petition the legislature for an additional appropriation in the matter of the abolition of grade crossings. The same committee reported no further action necessary on question of a Charles river dam.

Reports of the finance committee recommending additional appropriations of $80.87 for election expenses and $83.29 for registration of voters; recommending that $1064.53 from watering street and 100.09 for watering troughs be transferred to drains and culverts; recommending that the appropriation be carried forward to 1902, Washington street, Lower Falls, $2231.98; Auburndale tunnel, $75; Boylston street, $1019.40 and (final), Nonantum square, $50; recommending grant of $100 for water refunds; and that the city treasurer be authorized to settle the Francis W. Bacon betterment assessment for $4000 were received.

Orders were adopted granting $100 for water refunds; authorizing edgestones on River and Pine streets, Ward 4; appropriating $75 for land damages on account of Hammond road; granting the Commonwealth avenue street railway connection with its tracks on the boulevard at Lexington, Washington and Walnut streets; authorizing the mayor to petition the legislature for an additional appropriation on the matter of the abolition of grade crossings; appropriating $80.87 additional for elections and $83.29 for registration of voters; authorizing the city treasurer to receive $4,000 in settlement of Francis W. Bacon betterments; transferring $1064.53 from street watering and 100.09 from watering troughs to drains and culverts, and carrying forward to 1902, the appropriation for Washington street, Lower Falls, $2231.98; Auburndale, $75; Boylston street, $1019.40, and Nonantum square, $500.

A communication from the city solicitor relative to the statutes regarding smoke nuisance was referred to the next government.

The board then went into the committee of the whole, Alderman Fisher in the chair to consider the proposed amendments to the rules relative to committees.

Alderman Brown read a letter from Alderman Weeks who favored the amendments in general.

Alderman Mellen offered an amendment to merge the committees on rules and orders, and on legislation into one committee, and to establish a new committee on Departments to consist of seven members.

Alderman Weed mildly opposed this amendment and wished it expressed in more explicit phraseology.

Alderman Baily favored the original proposition which he claimed had been fully considered and greatly reduced the machinery of the board.

Alderman Hutchinson favored the amendments and did not believe in the radical changes in the functions of the finance committees.

Alderman Ensign believed that if it was found under the new plan that committees were overworked, the rules could be changed.

Alderman Brown called attention to the very few meetings of what might be termed the department committees, under the present rules, and more or less desultory reports were indulged in by the chairmen of the committees mentioned.

Alderman Lotrop favored the committee on departments and a similar position was taken by Alderman Fisher who also referred to the laborious and important duties of the auditing committee.

The question on Alderman Mellen's amendments was decided and both propositions adopted. The committee then voted to recommend the amended order and when the session of the board was resumed the order was adopted.

Aldermen Weed, Hutchinson and Mellen were then appointed a committee to perfect the wording of the rules of the board and at 11 o'clock the board adjourned to January 6th at the usual hour.

"The Singers" Concert.

A large and brilliant audience assembled at Bray hall, Newton Centre, Thursday evening last, to hear the opening concert of the seventh season of this unique choral society, which has gained an enviable reputation for the high character of its work and aims. The program was an unusually interesting one, the first half being devoted to music of a sacred character peculiarly appropriate to Christmas-tide, while the second consisted of music of a lighter nature with solos for soprano voice. The chief soloist of the evening was Mrs. Kileski-Bradbury of Boston, whose beautiful voice was never heard here to better advantage before. She charmed her audience by her skillful vocalism and refined interpretations, gaining the most hearty applause and admiration. The chorus seems to have gained in volume and an improvement in the balance of the parts is noticeable, while as to its attack, phrasing and shading, but little is left to be desired. Newton is rich in the possession of such a society, comparing as it does most favorably with the best in Boston or any other New England cities. No doubt this is owing largely to the zeal and faithfulness of its officers and members, but quite as much to the lofty ideals, exquisite taste and indefatigable labors of its conductor, Mr. George A. Burdett. His well earned success is not only attested to by the music lovers of Newton and vicinity but by many professional musicians of Boston who deem it a special privilege and pleasure to come out from time to time to listen to one of the concerts of "The Singers."

THE PROGRAM.

Christmas Hymn, XVII Century.
"Hark! What Mean Those Holy Voices."
"Glory be to God in the Highest."
"I will extol Thee O Lord."
"The Flight of the Holy Family."
"Gloria in Excelsis, St. Cecilia Mass." PART II.
"Whirl! Youthful Sports."
Four songs by Mrs. Bradbury.
"The Song of the Vikings."

Wasn't Part of Initiation.

A story is told of an incident in one of the local lodge rooms of this city the other night, which formed an unexpected feature of an initiation, and serious results for a helpless candidate were barely avoided.

During degree work among members of a well known order in Nickerson's block, West Newton, a candidate was requested to step into an anteroom and await the call of the master of ceremonies. This he did.

Opening from the ceiling of the anteroom is a trap door leading to apartments above. The door was held by a wooden bar, and had been placed in that position to permit of a free circulation of warm air.

In the room overhead a caterer and his assistants were busily preparing a spread for the lodge members. The open trap was an inconvenience, and one of the men decided to close it. He kicked out the support, and unfortunately the bar fell into the room below.

Directly beneath stood the luckless candidate. His meditations were interrupted by a blow on the head from the wooden bar. It inflicted a cut that required several stitches. The plucky candidate was prepared, however, after receiving a physician's treatment, to continue his part of the evening's program.

A. J. Snell wanted to attend a party but was afraid to do so on account of pains in his stomach, which he feared would grow worse. He says, "I was telling my troubles to a lady friend, who said: 'Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy will put you in condition for the party.' I bought a bottle and take pleasure in stating that two doses cured me and enabled me to have a good time at the party." Mr. Snell is a resident of Summer Hill, N. Y. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Death of Dr. Alfred S. Wiley.

Alfred Soule Wiley, M. D., died last Friday evening at his home on Walnut street, Newton Highlands, after a three weeks' attack of typhoid fever, aged 39 years, 10 months and 15 days. Though not entirely unexpected Dr. Wiley's death came as a severe shock to his many friends, particularly those of the medical profession.

Dr. Wiley was a native of Illinois. His early education he completed at Dartmouth College, where he studied medicine. He graduated in 1888.

Three years' study abroad followed and then the doctor came to Newton Highlands. He associated himself with the late Dr. James R. Deane, whose death occurred Dec. 6.

Dr. Wiley was not long after his arrival in Newton Highlands, in receiving the confidence and patronage of many prominent people. He formed a host of friends and like Dr. Deane performed many benefactions that made him greatly beloved. He was married last March. Funeral services were held and largely attended Sunday afternoon, at 2 in the Newton Highlands Congregational church. The officiating clergymen were Rev. C. G. Twombly and Rev. C. E. Havens. There was singing by a quartet. Many beautiful floral tributes lay upon the coffin. Included in the gathering were men and women of all classes, representing the departed's wide circle of friends. The pallbearers were Dr. S. J. Mixer and Dr. Donahue of Boston, Dr. F. G. Curtis of West Newton, Dr. D. Baker of Newtonville, Dr. R. P. Loring and Dr. G. L. West of Newton Centre, Dr. C. A. Thompson of Newton Upper Falls and Dr. Fred E. Withee of Newton Highlands.

The body was conveyed to the Newton cemetery.

Associated Charities.

While it is not often that benevolent societies can be charged with laxity and prodigal expenditure, it is due to charitable givers that they be given full information as to the disposition of the funds received. Take for example the case of the Associated Charities of Newton. Considerably less than $1000 is subscribed annually to maintain this organization. The salary of the secretary, rent of room, incidental expenses and occasional aid are fixed charges. Money donated by individuals for actual relief is always only accounted for to the donors. The savings department has its accounts which speak for themselves. No charge is made for work obtained for applicants. Expenses are authorized each month by the directors.

Besides all these open conditions as to funds, the public using this charitable society, and the other organizations that seek its aid in investigating doubtful cases, may be absolutely sure that, so far as it is possible, nothing is left undone to discover the actual condition of the individual or family that comes under its care and scrutiny. It is seldom that a benevolent society is so clearly under the full light of public vision as regards its administration and its financial operations. Not that its board of directors, which authorities all its expenses, needs watching, but the public likes to know what it pays for and will always endorse an open and economical medium of poor relief.

A Good Cough Medicine.

[From the Gazette, Toowoomba, Australia.]
I find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an excellent medicine. I have been suffering from a severe cough for the last two months, and it has effected a cure. I have great pleasure in recommending it. - W. C. Wackner. This is the opinion of one of our oldest and most respected residents, and has been voluntarily given in good faith that others may try the remedy and be benefited as was Mr. Wackner. This remedy is sold by all druggists.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

Holla Street Theatre—The first presentation in this city of Klaw & Erlanger's production of Harry M. Smith's new musical comedy, "The Liberty Belles," will be made at the Holla Street Theatre Monday evening, Jan. 6th. This organization is one of the largest musical comedy companies that will be seen this season, and in many respects is the most important. A cast of forty well known players will be seen in this presentation, the principals of which are Etta Butler, Sandoz Milliken, Augusta Glase, Edna Hunter, Lotta Faust, Pauline Chase, Grace Kimball, Edith Barr, John Slavin, Harry Gilfoil, J. C. Marlowe, D. M. Lomaden, L. D. Wharton, and N. K. Caferly. Several of these will be readily recognized as artists of wide repute, especially Etta Butler, the comedienne and mimic; Sandoz Milliken, the actress and vocalist; Harry Gilfoil, the character actor and Harry Davenport. The story of the new piece will be told in a prologue and two acts, which will be presented with an unusually elaborate scenic equipment. The two characters which give the new musical comedy its title, "The Liberty Belles," Margery Lee and Dorothy Grey, are played by Etta Butler and Sandoz Milliken. Marie Lamour will play the part of a Japanese student. The scene of the first act occurs in a dormitory in the young ladies' seminary of Mrs. Dr. Sprout, played by Grissie Carlyle who was for several years one of the most prominent members of the New York Casino Company. A sentimental escapade, in which a college student and an Annapolis cadet figure, leads to the expulsion of Misses Grey and Lee. The two acts are confined to exploiting the humorous side of the efforts of two independent young women to earn their own living. In one of the scenes they will figure as practical cooks, affording no end of amusement. There will be several unusually attractive musical numbers presented during the performance of "The Liberty Belles."

Boston Museum—The performances of this (Christmas) week are the last of Mr. Edward E. Kidder's fascinating rural drama "Sky Farm," at the Boston Museum, where it has been presented for fully three months to a succession of great and delighted audiences. Few plays of any kind make such a record as this in any Boston theatre and such a triumph certainly speaks trumpet-tongued of the merits of this charming idyl of the Berkshire hills. Undoubtedly "Sky Farm" could be played in Boston for the rest of the season but "The Red Kloof," the famous Boer play by Paul M. Potter introducing Louis Mann and Clara Lipman, is set for Monday evening, Dec. 30, and "Sky Farm" must give place to it. Everybody should see the sun-kissed valley below the farm, the maple maze, the village clergyman's house the village postoffice, with its delicious comedy and the barn dance, one of the merriest and most effective of stage pictures on which to ring down the final curtain. No one has yet come away from "Sky Farm" without being the wiser and the happier for the visit.

HOUGH & JONES,

243 Washington Street, - Newton,

The Boston and Albany.

It is now just about a year since the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company took formally in charge the Boston & Albany and which has since been operated under their general direction, although without any radical changes in any respect.

During all the discussion concerning the leasing of this property, we were rather disposed to be non-committal. We fully recognized that there was no other railway administration in the world that equaled the Vanderbilt system. On the other hand we were all proud of the good old Boston & Albany and could not but feel a certain amount of regret, should its interests or identity be lost or changed.

As a result of the year's administration, we feel that we are warranted in emphatically stating that it has been decidedly for the best of all concerned and that, we can now heartily commend the course of the stockholders in having thus leased their property.

We are called upon to rather specifically refer to this, because we have noticed that some journals of late have made, what seems to us an unfair criticism, possibly actuated by some personal reasons, but the benefits to New England during the past year and for the future, we believe, are going to be very much more marked, because of his lease.

The New York Central people have certainly been most considerate and have moved slowly in making any changes, but what alterations they have made, as regards train service and other features connected thereto, have all been in the line of improvement.

The Boston and Albany are running more trains, particularly to the West, than ever before, the running time has been accelerated, the equipment has been improved, more dining cars put on, and everything that they have done has been in the line of improvements and in adding some of the New York Central methods, which stand for enterprise and progress, while all of us recognize what a magnificent property the Boston & Albany is and that it has justly been termed the pride of New England.

It was built up and reached its high degree of perfection, by conservative, and possibly, old-fashioned methods, and too much praise cannot be given to its administration from first to last; but with all our pride in it and respect for its management, it cannot be gainsaid that it was in many ways old-fashioned and behind the times.

Conditions are radically different from what they were twenty-five years ago, and the policy that was the very best then would be behind the times in this century. We are heartily prepared to say that not only has the New York Central Executive management of the Boston & Albany for the last year been to our minds more than satisfactory, and to the benefit of our New England people, but that it will continue to be so.

In the passenger department, which the public as travelers are most closely identified with, there has been no change. Mr. Hanson, who was by far the most progressive and up-to-date official during the old regime is still the general passenger agent of the Boston & Albany, with an opportunity to add to the results in the interest of the traveling public, because the executive direction is more enterprising, and he is in no way held back from any progress that will tend to make the passenger department more popular with the travelling public.

Of course there are people who are bound to say that it was not best, and will insist that it is not so, and of course any changes which may be made, particularly if it happens to strike in some way the persons themselves, is bound to cause criticisms from some source, but the New York Central Railroad has built up the greatest railway property in the world. Its management has been of a character to challenge the admiration of all, and we believe that it is in no way stating it too strongly that both as regards the stockholders and the public that they can in no way be so well taken care of as associated and a part of the Vanderbilt system.

The old time Boston & Albany was deserving of all praise as stated, and is today a great property, and still, as we have already referred to it here, to a more or less extent old-fashioned. For example, one of the old time runs was the if a train was late it should not make up time; whereas it can be safely stated that there is no railway in this country or any other, that could with such absolute safety accelerate its speed under some circumstances to make up some of the time that had been unavoidably lost. It has the best road bed of any railway in America, and its equipment has always been solid and substantial, and passengers have not been slow to appreciate the present increased advantage, that if trains have been somewhat late, that a certain latitude is allowed the engineer to make up the time and bring passengers promptly in, as near as possible to the advertised time. This, especially where connections are being depended upon over other lines, is a very important matter.

We know it is the desire of the New York Central to conduct the Boston & Albany affairs to the entire satisfaction of all the New England people and they are too liberal minded to pursue any other course. They have moved slowly in making any changes, but as stated, they have been entirely in the line of improvement.

Their administration of railways has certainly been marvelous, conducted from their main point in New York, where they have no end of competition, with probably not less than eight or ten trunk lines to the West, and yet the New York Central carries of all through travel to the Western cities, nearly if not quite 70 per cent. leaving for all of their competitors, not over, if fully 30 per cent. We think this is pretty strong evidence of what has been accomplished by a successful business administration, and we feel that the people cannot be better served than being a part and connection of such a great system, which is, to our minds, so splendidly managed in every way.

Certainly the travelling public have been appreciative of these changes, because they have never done such a passenger business in the history of the road. This is of course largely due to the greater enterprise, which, under Mr. Hanson's capable direction, has been made possible during the past year, but is in line with the general business policy the New York Central System, which stands for the best in travel in every respect, progress and enterprise and to furnish their passengers with the very best services that can possibly be asked or known. It is therefore, in conclusion, that as a general resume of the whole thing in connection with this matter, which has been so much discussed, a subject with which we have always kept closely in touch, that the lease as decided upon has been beneficial and advantageous and that it would have been a mistake not to have had it consummated and as the years go on, we are thoroughly confident that it will prove to be all the more so. Certainly no one can gainsay a better and quicker service or more progress, and enterprise all along the line, which has resulted to the benefit of the public in every respect.

Communication.

Editor of the Graphic:

All citizens of Newton and Brighton ought to turn to the Graphic of 13th inst and read and reread the special pleading for the milk dealer, of Messrs. J. Loring & Co., of Brighton, for a raise in the price of milk.

O yes, Mr. Milkman, (brother of the ice man), all Newton and Brighton vicinity is anxious to pay 10 cents a quart for milk if absolutely demanded. But there is no reason in milk fetching more than 6 to 8 cents a quart, according to the quality. Messrs. Loring & Co. state that the milk producers of New England are in an awkward position this winter. I deny it. For years the farmers, (the real producers), have been fighting the distributors or milkmen even to get living prices and the middlemen and milkmen have fought them back. This firm of milkmen, I take them to be mistaken when they write that but little corn is raised in the New England states. It is true that the West sends vast quantities into the six states, but at the same time the raising of corn by the New England farmer is on the increase comparing with the present few years. But the season of 1901 has been a prolific one in corn home-raised, and never a better season for growing it. While the West was all dried up in drought, the East was the reverse, and a grand season producing a wonderful growth. All the farmers were made happy in a grand crop. This I know from seeing the corn and talking with the farmers. Now beside the corn grain, every stalk was used as food for cattle, or cut into the silage and it is daily being used for cow food. No doubt great amounts of corn are daily coming from the West, this is always so, but because corn is very much in speculation it don't follow that the milkmen should speculate in his prices and excuses. He should take the average of the years. For very many years corn has been very low down in price, East and West. But the show was made to reduce the price of milk to the consumer, the tendency has been constantly to increase until now a fine opportunity offers itself to specially plead for better treatment to the milk distributor. It is not fair for the people to cut down the use of milk just so soon as prices advance over 7 cents a quart, a profitable price. A party that can get 8 cents a quart must possess superior advantages, sanitariously supervised, selected food, groomery, etc., and in conveyance of milk, perhaps the most important food cognizant to mankind. Now then, Mr. Milkman, there is much room for improvement in your milk selection and distribution.

John Honest.

Manila Peculiarities

A capable newspaper correspondent, who has lived in Manila, writes from that city in an illustrated article published in The Outlook, that acquaintance with Manila lessons objects to it. "It grows on one like vice or an acquired taste. The few natives who whites meet in business or socially are courteous, quiet, likable people, even if whites never feel sure about trusting them. Native habits are not offensive. Everybody gambles and fights chickens, but both of these pastimes seek reasonable seclusion. There is no intemperance. Cafes and saloons do not offend their senses and noises on all sides, as in Havana. An American wonders at the few drinking places until he learns that they cater only to his own kind, who constitute about three per cent. of Manila's population, and not more than four per cent. when soldiers flock to town. Natives keep to themselves. They do not gather in street crowds, except for church processions and fiestas celebrated in daylight. After dark they prefer the quiet of their own homes, where friends may drop in and enjoy a nibble of sweets and music."

"Soil, sun and bounteous rains make amends for human neglect by garments of waving green, rich with blossoms, which they spread profusely about the yards and houses. There are lovely pictures almost everywhere. When Manila shall learn modern ways, and become prosperous enough to induce the public improvements which it needs, and to popularize fresh paint and tidy habits among householders, it may be no longer mockery to call it Pearl of the Orient."

Killed by Falling Down Stairs

William Kennedy, aged 35 years, a teamster living at Mrs. Carr's boarding house on the Wellesley side of Washington street, Newton Lower Falls, fell down stairs shortly after 7 last Sunday evening and sustained a fractured skull. A physician was summoned who ordered the injured man's removal to the hospital. This was done. Several hours later Kennedy died. He was unmarried and is survived by a married sister in Boston and a brother, Thomas Kennedy who works as a farmer in Mt. Auburn. After an investigation the police and hospital authorities decided that the affair was purely an accident.

An Era of Consolidation

"Get together" seems to be the word of command, nowadays, in the mercantile world.

Consolidation is the fact of the hour in respect to many great business operations, as is well illustrated by the recent uniting of some of Boston's heaviest banks.

Now we hear, from the same city, a rumor that practically all the carpet business of Boston is shortly to be united in the hands of a single corporation. Details are not at hand as this is written, but the statement is apparently well founded.

Christian Endeavor Notes.

Massachusetts Endeavorers are to hold their next state convention in Boston, Oct. 14, 15, 16 and 17, 1902. A cordial invitation has been extended to all the Endeavorers of New England to join with Massachusetts in helping to make this the best and greatest convention ever held, and every state has heartily accepted the invitation. The committee of thirteen is already at work on behalf of the Endeavorers of Boston and vicinity. They propose to leave no stone unturned in the reception that shall be given this great company of Boston's guests. Why not make this second only to the great convention in Boston in 1897? Surely the Newton Union can be counted on to do her part.

At the Church of the Messiah, Christmas eve a Christmas tree was provided for the Sunday school with a stereoscopic exhibition of "The Holy Child." On Christmas Day there was morning prayer and Holy Communion at 9.30 a. m.

The annual holiday party under the auspices of the New church parish, Newtonville, will be held in the chapel today from 4 to 10 o'clock. The program will consist of games and a social hour followed by supper and a Christmas play given by the young people under the direction of Miss Eleanor Hooper and Miss Eleanor Carter.

The various churches throughout Newton have been observing the Christmas season both as regards decoration and services. On Sunday many of the pastors preached sermons appropriate for the season and special musical programs were rendered. The Sunday schools held exercises in the afternoon or evening and had Christmas tree exercises during the week. In many of the churches the musical programs were more elaborate than usual and additional singers and instrumentalists added greatly to the artistic value from a critical standpoint.

HANDICAPPED.

The man who started to run a race in chains and fetters would be visibly handicapped. No one would expect him to succeed. The man who runs the race of life when his digestive and nutritive organs are diseased is equally handicapped. In the one case his strength is over-weighted, in the other it is under-mined. Success demands above all else a sound stomach.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. When this is done food is perfectly digested and assimilated and the body receives strength in the only way in which strength can be given—by the nutrition derived from digested and assimilated food.

"The praise I would like to give your 'Golden Medical Discovery' I cannot utter in words or describe with pen," writes James B. Ambrose, Esq., of 1255 1/2 Mifflin Street, Huntingdon, Pa. "I was taken with what our physicians here said was indigestion. I doctored with the best around here and found no relief. I wrote to you and you sent me a question blank to fill out, and I did so, and you then advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took three bottles and I felt so good that I stopped, being cured. I have no symptoms of gastric trouble or indigestion now."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, sent free on receipt of stamps to cover expense of mailing only. Twenty-one one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

Two of the members of the present school committee who retire from public service with the year of 1901 are worthy of more than passing notice.

Mr. Frank T. Benner of Ward 2, who was elected on the anti-Aldrich issue four years ago, and who has succeeded in carrying his point, is probably the most conspicuous member of the board.

Mr. Benner early attained the leadership of the committee through his ability and conscientious service, although in the minds of many persons this has been overlooked in the heat of the so called Aldrich feud.
His retirement from the school committee will, it is hoped, bring to an end, a contest which has greatly interfered with the best interests of the schools.

The declination of Mr. Daniel Dewey of Ward 7 to continue on the committee is a distinct loss to the city. Mr.
Dewey's position as chairman of the finance committee was conscientiously filled, and on many occasions his vote and voice were on the negative side.

More men like Mr. Dewey are needed in public life, and it is to be hoped that the example he has left will be followed by many others.

DIRECT NOMINATIONS.

With a flourish of many trumpets the news is announced that Mr. Robert Luce of Somerville, who is more or less identified with the matter of caucus reform, is to introduce at the next Legislature, a bill which will make sweeping changes in the present caucus system, and allow of direct nominations by the people.

The result to be attained is in accord with the views maintained by the Graphic, but there is a vast deal of difference between stating a theory and in bringing it into practical operation.

We sympathize with Mr. Luce in his object but believe the result will have to be attained by assimilation of existing conditions rather than by annihilating them.

THE COMMITTEES.

The changes made in the rules of the aldermen, changing the number of committees from twenty-one to seven, is a great step in the direction of transacting city business in the manner contemplated by the present city charter.

The former committee system was a relic of the old charter grafted upon the new and was shown to be inconsistent by the decision of the courts in 1899.

The new rules will not only trend towards a government more in harmony with the spirit of the city charter, but will so far reduce and systematize the work and time of the various members, as to make the burdens of office less onerous and exacting.

The present school board seems to delight in antagonizing public opinion. We hear many expressions of dissatisfaction over their decision to keep the schools open on Monday and Tuesday of this week.

One cause of gratification to the citizens of Massachusetts this week has been the declination of Governor Crane to accept the secretaryship of the treasury under President Roosevelt.

While the whole state thoroughly appreciated the high honor which had been tendered its governor, there is universal rejoicing that the executive chair will be again occupied by Governor Crane in 1902.

A public opportunity to greet the gentleman whose popularity enabled him to obtain a plurality of over nine hundred votes in a three cornered contest, will be had at the New Year's reception at City Hall, on Wednesday afternoon to which both ladies and gentlemen are invited.

President Weed and Vice President Saltonstall are among the youngest members of the board of aldermen.

Dont' forget to renew your subscription to the Graphic.

City Hall Notes.

Mayor Pickard remembered all the young ladies in City Hall with substantial Christmas presents on Tuesday.

The contract and bond of Mr. P.
H. Jackson for the Ash street school house has been approved by the mayor.

At the caucus of the members elect of the board of aldermen of 1902 held last Friday evening, Alderman Alonzo R. Weed of Ward 7 was unanimously nominated for President and Alderman E. P. Saltonstall of Ward 6 for Vice President. Alderman Walter
Chesley was chairman and Alderman
A. S. Norris was secretary of the meeting.

The customary perambulation of the Boston and Newton boundary lines is being made today, with the city engineer, city clerk, street commissioner and Alderman Lothrop representing the city.

Victim of Gunning Accident.

Francis O. La Bante, aged 38, of 973 Chestnut street, Upper Falls, was gunning in the woods on the Needham side of the Charles river at a point near Upper Falls, about 11 Christmas morning, when he received a quantity of bird shot in the back, left arm and heels. It was fired from a rifle in the hands, it is said, of Joseph Smith, aged 18, of Chandler place, Upper Falls. La Bante is at the hospital but his condition is not serious. He says he does not blame Smith and that the affair was an accident.

last Saturday night was a great success and the hall was filled to overflowing. It is said that many of the young bachelors of the village were not present, otherwise it might have been very embarrassing.

NEW POLICE STATION

SPENDIDLY EQUIPPED BUILDING FOR DIVI-SION 1 ON ARMOY LOT, NEWTON.

An important addition to the municipal buildings of this city, the need of which has long been publicly expressed is the new police station of division 1, now in the process of erection. It occupies a site on the Armory lot on Washington street, Newton, directly east of the Armo-ry building.
The foundation walls are at present completed, and there is every indication that the building will be ready for occupancy by April 1.

The new structure is from the plans of Architect Walter R. E. R. of this city. It is to be of red brick, with granite trimmings, two stories in height, with a width of 30 feet and a depth of 45 feet. It will front on Washington street.

On the first floor, leading from the main entrance, is the general room, and directly in the rear the cell room.
In addition there are to be a detention room, a private office, guard room and lavatories.

The second floor will contain sleeping apartments and bath rooms, with provision for storage, etc. Particular attention is to be paid to the equipment of the entire building, and none but the most improved facilities are to be installed.

Between the Armo-ry and the police station there will be a driveway, where the patrol wagon may receive prisoners at a door on the west side of the new building. Police station 1, as the building will be known, will,
as heretofore, be a substation, and all persons arrested will be taken to police headquarters for arraignment in the police court.

As the present police station forms a part of fire station 1, building on Washington street, the exclusive house of its own building is a source of much gratification to the officials of both the police and fire departments.

A feature of Newton's new police station is the arrangement of the cells as regards ventilation and sanitation. Cage calls of the U. S. government pattern are to be installed.
They will be warmed and ventilated by indirect methods that permit of a free circulation of air.

It is hoped that after the building is completed a driveway will be constructed from Centre place, which lies directly west, that the patrol wagon and other vehicles may obtain easier access.

At The Churches.

A meeting of the boys' club was held last Monday evening in the vestry of the Newtonville Methodist church. Rev. Franklin Hamilton, a former pastor of the church, was the guest of the club and gave an address on "Switzerland."

The annual bringing in of gifts for the poor of Newton and Boston under the auspices of the Young Men's League was held at the Immanuel Baptist church, Newton, last Friday evening. Later a program was given consisting of readings by Miss Adelaide Jump and Crystal Chimes, Swiss bells and Zaphone solos by Prof. F.
O. Harold of Waltham.

At the Newton Centre Methodist church last Sunday morning the new choir was assisted by Miss Elsie Warren, contralto; Mr. Harry Parmelee, baritone; Miss Agnes B. Crowbridge, violinist. At the Christmas choral service at four o'clock there were duets and carols by members of the choir and an address.

The "Story of Bethlehem", a sacred cantata by John E. West, for solo chorus and organ, will be given by the choir of Eliot church next Sunday afternoon at 4.30.

The Christmas Cantata, "The Story of Bethlehem" by John E. West, will be given next Sunday afternoon at Eliot church by the quartette assisted by a chorus of forty voices. The quartette consists of Mrs. Frances Dunton
Wood, soprano; Miss Adah Campbell Hussey, contralto; Lewis B. Canterbury, tenor; Frederic W. Cutter, bass.

At the Church of the Messiah next Sunday the services are as follows:

DISAPPEARING WRITING.

The Way a Big Swindle Was Successfully Worked in Paris.

A number of Parisian financiers were recently defrauded of a very considerable sum of money by a swindler who relied for the success of his scheme entirely upon the peculiar properties of lodge of starch. Posing as a man of considerable wealth, whose money was tied up in such a manner that he could not realize without heavy losses and pretending to have the option of some valuable concessions in China, he obtained various large amounts of money in exchange for bills dated to stand for three months.

No one for a moment suspected that there was anything in the least degree shady about the man or his transactions, and when he made it public that he had been successful in selling his Chinese concession at a large profit his creditors felt absolutely certain that he would meet his bills.

To their immense surprise, however, when they came to look through their papers to find the bills they only found bills with blank spaces in the places where the swindler's name should have been and had actually been. They clamored round him for an explanation of the strange affair, but he denied that he had ever given any of them bills and defied them to sue him for repayment of the loans, and the fact that the bills were devoid of the swindler's signature rendered them absolutely worthless.

The matter was put into the hands of the police, who were able to discover that in signing the bills the man had used a solution of iodine of starch, which, when first used for writing, appears much the same as ordinary ink, but completely disappears in the course of a few weeks, and, although traces of the chemical may subsequently be discovered, nothing can make the writing show up again. Finding that his victims had discovered his method, the swindler decamped, despite the fact that the chances of the police obtaining a conviction against him were very remote indeed.

WAVES OF WATER.

The ticket is elaborately decorated in colors representing a fireman in full costume and the implements used in putting out a fire.

—On Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Scamman on Henshaw street their daughter, Miss Bessie Scamman was married to Dr. Louis N. Chapman of Roxbury. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. F. Snell, pastor of the Baptist church, in the presence of a small company of relative and friends. The bride was unattended. A reception followed, after which Dr. and Mrs. Chapman left on a wedding tour. They will make their home in Wollaston.

—The annual Christmas concert of the Baptist church last Sunday evening, was a great success. The program was artistically arranged and of high order. Mrs. Emma F. Snell rendered very valuable assistance at the organ. The solos which were sung by Miss Olive Burdison, Miss May Inman and Mrs. M. E. Beardsley were very pleasing. Mr. Edward Bacon of Newton also contributed much to other numbers on the program. The interest of the occasion culminated in the solo of Miss Inman, who sang "Night of Nights," by Van de Water, and whose beautiful and cultivated voice is always charming. Another enjoyable feature was the duet by Miss Marion Burdison and Mr. F. M. Morton, "Love Divine," by Stainer.

NEWTON FROEBEL UNION.

The Newton Froebel Union has lately had three public meetings for mothers and kindergartners, of Newton.

The lecturer was Mrs. Annie Moseley Perry of Boston, and the subjects considered were "Obedience," "Responsibility" and the Spirit of the Kindergarten.

The first lecture showed that the habit of obedience should be established early and the first stage of mere mechanical obedience should be dealt with quite largely, before a child is two years old. In the second stage, the capacity of obedience through reflection, awakens and the child may be led to see that things go better, on the whole, when he does what his parents wish him to do.

The third stage of obedience to the ideals of right, just because they are right, develops much later in life and a person could hardly come to this point, if he had not been well grounded on the earlier stages.

The race, in its gradual development toward the age of rationality, has been obliged to go through these three stages of obedience.

Before parents and teachers can do intelligent work with children, they must have a view of life in all its relations; they must know their aim from the beginning; although they must begin with the child by establishing the habit of obedience to the customs and courtesies of daily life, the moral and religious ideals must be always kept in mind.

The highest stage is only reached when there is free, conscious obedience to that which is best, so the will of the child must not be broken but developed and guided toward free self control.

The second lecture on Responsibility brought out the importance of fitting the child to fill his place in the world, in such a way, that when he shall have attained manhood, he will not only be helpful to himself but will also give his greatest service to humanity.

The use of work and play in developing the child was touched upon and it was seen that in creative work, in relation to the family, civil society, state and church, man attains his highest development. With the end in view of helping him to fulfill these relations, parents and teachers should begin, in the simplest way, meet the child as he is and lead him on, step by step, toward higher and higher degrees of progression.

The third lecture was preceded by the singing of Christmas songs and the speaker suggested the helpfulness of the Christmas thought in the realization of the kindergarten ideals.

The spirit of Christianity, the spirit of true motherhood and the kindergarten spirit were found to be the same and the talk was illustrated by selections from Froebel's "Mother Play," showing the instinctive play work of mothers with their children and the need of transforming this instinctive life, into conscious purpose and insight in order to meet the needs of our present and future civilization. It was recommended that all mothers should own and use Miss Blow's translation, published in two parts, in the International Education Series, under the titles of "Mottos and Commentaries," and "Songs and Music of Froebel's Mother Play."

Each lecture was followed by a pleasant social hour which was mutually helpful to all.

Col. Whelden's 80th Birthday

At his hospitable home on Oakleigh road, Co. Charles M. Whelden, formerly of Pittsfield, but for the past two years a resident of this city, observed his eightieth birthday with an informal reception. The gathering included many prominent in military circles, in which the colonel is both well known and popular, together with members of the Ancient and Honorable artillery of Boston. Col. Whelden enjoys the best of health and cordially welcomed his guests. The colonel possesses an enviable war record and is held in high esteem.

Christian Endeavor Notes.

"Numbering our Days," will be the subject of the Eliot Consecration meeting Sunday evening. Leader Chas. D. Kepner.

Mr. Wm. A. Sanderson will lead the devotional meeting of the Oak Hill Society Friday evening, Jan. 3. Scripture Ps. 90.

The public meeting of the Newton Christian Endeavor Union was held Wednesday evening, Dec. 18, at the Methodist church, Newtonville. The speaker of the evening was Mr. J. Willis Baer, secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. The great need of deeper consecration was the main thought that he emphasized. Not so much did he try to impress the idea of greater activity, but rather that all effort should be under the direction of God, that success could only come from Him, and that failure in any line should call us to Him.

We can supply you with engraved wedding, at home and calling cards at very reasonable prices.

The Prize winners at the gentlemen's whist last Saturday evening were W. O. Delano and F. M. Copeland, F. H. Potter and A. R. Mitchell, W. G. Morey and J. D. Robinson, Fayette Shaw and F. D. Shaw. Fourteen tables were used.

At duplicate whist on Monday evening, F. M. Copeland and J. F. Casey were high men. H. S. Bosson and F. D. Bond, F. H. Potter and A. K. Sherman, H. R. Nash and Fred Waterman were also above the average.

A delightful dinner was given to the Republican city committee last Friday evening, by Chairman Chas. E. Hatfield. A striking feature of the table decoration was a magnificent bunch of roses.

Police Paragraphs.

The annual meeting and dinner of the police benefit association will be held at the Woodland Park Hotel, Auburndale, January 8, at 2 p. m.

Sergt. John Purcell has been detailed to cover divisions 1 and 2. Sergt. Clay remains at the desk in headquarters.

Changes of night routes in division 1 have been effected as follows: W. E. Fuller to McLaughlin's route at Newton; McLaughlin to McNeil's (late route); McNeil to Dalton's; Dalton to O'Halloran's; O'Halloran to S. Z. Burke's; S. Z. Burke to Fuller's.

The clubhouse of the Brae Burn golf club was entered by thieves recently. Over 50 lockers were broken into and golf balls and other implements of the game were stolen.

An unoccupied house at 11 Oak avenue, West Newton, owned by William Ahearn was entered recently and stripped of lead pipe.

Charles B. Haskill, formerly employed as a collector by the Newton Journal, was brought from Malden last Saturday night by Inspector Fletcher upon a warrant charging him with larceny. Monday morning Haskill appeared in court. The complainant was Mr. G. H. Pratt. The specific charge was that Haskill had collected from Mr. H. F. Cate of West Newton, $27, and had returned to Mr. Pratt but $10 of this amount. To this Haskill pleaded guilty. Mr. Pratt charged further that Haskill had in addition to the larceny of the $17 taken from time to time amounts that in the aggregate reached more than $500. The court, however, refused to consider more than the first complaint, and upon that Haskill was sentenced to serve five months in the house of correction.

Newtonville, Dec. 18, 1901.

To the Editor of the Graphic:

The following subjects have been announced for the Eliot prize essays: 1. "The Pilgrim and the Puritan," 2. "Life in New England in the Time of John Eliot."

3. "Women of the Revolution." The essays are to be handed to the superintendent of schools at Newtonville, by April 30, 1902, and announcement of the results is to be made at the graduating exercises of the High school in June.

Full particulars as to the conditions under which the essays are to be written can be obtained of the headmaster of the High school, and the masters of the grammar schools.

Albert B. Field, Superintendent of Schools.

Price of Milk increased.

Owing to the largely increased cost of production the milk dealers of Newton have decided that they cannot do otherwise than increase the price of milk to their customers. The increase will be one cent per quart to date from January 1, 1902. It is a curious fact that while the price of eggs and of almost every one of the necessities of life fluctuates in accordance with the law of supply and demand and the cost of production, the price of milk has heretofore remained stationary. Considering the nutritive value of milk in comparison with other foods it will still remain not only the most healthful but one of the cheapest articles of daily consumption.

Literary Notes.

The Outlook is a weekly newspaper and monthly magazine in one and under one subscription price. Its Magazine Number for January has eight illustrated articles, two stories one by Sarah Orne Jewett, a carefully written history of the week's doings and many book reviews. There are full page portraits of new political figures of prominence, articles of anecdotal biography, a most entertaining instalment of Edward Everett Hale's "Memories of a Hundred Years," and much else of permanent value.

The Twentieth Century.

The advent of the new century is to be commemorated by the Newton Graphic in the publication of a handsomely bound volume, entitled, "Newton, The Garden City of the Commonwealth, 1874-1901." It will contain valuable and interesting historical matter, fully illustrated, and will tell of leading events, characters and progress of the city, and the many advantages of Newton as a beautiful and desirable place of residence will be fully shown. The volume will also contain the portraits and biographies of representative men who, in their lives, their work or their influence have made Newton of to-day the garden city of the Commonwealth and of New England.

It is believed that such a work will commend itself to the citizens of Newton as bringing together a carefully collated record of the lives of men who have contributed to the welfare of our city; men of whom we are justly proud as educators, lawyers, physicians, clergymen and men of affairs.

Such a publication at this time will give to the present, an up to date account of the city and will bequeath to the future a legacy of what Newton was at the beginning of what promises to be a most remarkable century.

Copies of the book will be sent to the prominent institutions of learning, libraries and clubs of New England and New York.

"For Ways That Are Dark," Etc.

"Some years ago," says the advertising agent of a tobacco firm quoted by the Philadelphia Record, "I wished to introduce among the Chinese a two for five cigar that my people were heavily interested in, and I decided to draw up a little card extolling this cigar in Chinese characters."

"I sought out Lo Hen Wong in San Francisco, a very intelligent fellow, and got him to write me a few sentences in praise of my article. I had what he wrote lithographed and distributed the cards by thousands in all the Chinatowns of the United States. They were inscribed with a picture of the cigar, and below were the words: 'Smoke this cigar. It is the best on the market, and two for five is its price.'"

"That, at least, is what I thought was the meaning of the Chinese characters. I found out, some six months later, my mistake. The words Lo Hen Wong had written and which I had had lithographed were: 'Don't smoke this cigar. It is not good. But the Gong company's cigarettes, for sale in every Chinatown at 3 cents a package, are excellent.'"

"Lo Hen Wong had got $10 from me for his work, and I don't know how much he got from the Gong company. We distributed many thousands of the cards before we got on to the trick that had been played on us."

Old Names in London.

If London street names are not always what they seem, the names of the great parishes usually are. Take Lambeth, for instance. That vast district has retained its name practically unaltered since the days of Edward the Confessor, who granted a charter in which it is styled Lambelith. Some illiterate scribe, who helped in the making of "Domesday," did, indeed, make an effort to obliterate its real name by calling it Lancel, but his efforts were, fortunately, in vain. William Rufus in another charter named it Lambeth, since when it has kept its title unaltered.

In the old days Lambelith (from blith, a haven) was the great river port whence agricultural produce was ferried across the Thames to the more populous country opposite. There are still many "lithes" left us, such as Queenhithe and Rotherhithe, and, although their original functions have gone, there still remains a shadow to remind us of their departed glory—London Chronicle.

How to Make Chop Suey.

For those who like or who think they would like the famous Chinese dish, chop suey, the following recipe, which any intelligent housewife can follow, was given by W. E. S. Fales, for several years vice consul at Amoy:

"For four persons two chickens' livers, two chickens' gizzards, one pound young, clean pork cut into small pieces, half an ounce of green root ginger and two stalks of celery. Saute this in a frying pan over a hot fire, adding four tablespoonfuls of olive oil, one tablespoonful of vinegar, half a cupful of boiling water, one teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, half a teaspoonful of salt, black and red pepper to taste and a dash of cloves and cinnamon. When nearly done, add a small can of mushrooms, half a cupful of either bean sprouts or French green peas or string beans chopped fine or asparagus tips. The see-yu sauce which is eaten with this delectable dish can be procured at any Chinese grocery."

Be Prepared.

Daniel Webster once told a friend that his great speech in reply to Hayne, which is the high water mark of modern eloquence, but which at the time was supposed to have been delivered without preparation, had been substantially prepared long before.

When called upon suddenly to reply to the fiery Carolinian's attacks, which so alarmed the New Englanders at the capital, he was entirely at ease and ready for the fray, for, as he said, he had "only to turn to his notes tucked away in a pigeonhole," and refresh his recollection. "If Hayne," he said, "had tried to make a speech to fit my notes, he could not have hit them better. No man is inspired by the occasion. I never was."

Physiologists and scientists in general have been making some curious experiments with a view to determine the relative length and strength of "right and left limbs." Fifty and nine-tenths per cent of the men examined had the right arm stronger than the left, 10.4 per cent had the two arms of equal length and strength, and 32.7 per cent had the left arm stronger than the right. Of women, 40.9 per cent had the right arm stronger than the left, and 24.5 per cent had the left stronger than the right.—London Family Doctor.

Where Smoking Is a Crime.

There is one country in the world where it is considered a crime to smoke. Abyssinia is the region, and the law forbidding tobacco dates from the year 1642. It was at first merely intended to prevent priests from smoking in the churches, but it was taken too literally, and nowadays even foreigners have to be careful not to be seen smoking.

An Unusual Race.

An unusual race was advertised to be run at Ripon, in Yorkshire, in 1725: "The Lady's Plate, of £15 value, by any horse that was no more than five years old the last grass. Women to be the riders. Each to pay a guinea entrance. Three heats and twice round the common for a heat."

Ireland has 408 alibedged persons to 1,000 inhabitants, Scotland 424 and England 432.

The hardest thing to find is an honest partner for a swindle.

He Caught the Car.

The man dashed down the street after the retreating State street car.

Every muscle was strained; his breath came in quick gasps; the beads of moisture stood out upon his forehead. His feet were working like the pedals on a bicycle. He only thought of the ground in the more altitudinous places.

"It's catch—that—street—car," he gasped, "or die."

Faster went the street car. Faster went the man.

He overturned fruit stands and aged blind men in his wild career. He knocked down children and trampled upon them. But onward he rushed. He collided with a baby buggy. The baby was knocked into the street. The mother of the child picked it up. She pointed a finger at the disappearing form of the man. "Murderer!" she hissed through her clenched teeth.

He draws nearer to the car—nearer yet.

He reaches out his hand.

He touches the rail on the rear platform.

He gives one last convulsive effort.

He is on the car.

He sinks breathless into a seat and mops his brow. The conductor touches him on the shoulder.

"Get off here!" speaks the conductor. "We're a-goin' to their barn. No more cars tonight."—Chicago Tribune.

Ate $25,000 Worth of Liver.

Among the many poker stories about a good one is told concerning Dutch Hank, a well known player of Rochester, N. Y. Hank went into Daly's place, in New York city, one day and sat in a game, winning $25,000 with very little trouble. Then he rose to go, thinking it was time to stop. Daly shook hands with him and asked him what was his hurry. Hank said he would have to go to a Dutch restaurant he knew where they always cooked liver in a way that he particularly liked.

"Oh, if that's all," said Daly, "just stay here. We can serve the liver just that way, and you can go right on playing."

Dutch Hank had left some friends outside waiting, but he said he would stay and eat the liver. He sat down and ate and played. His $25,000 soon went back to Daly in a turn of luck. Hank went out without a cent.

"What kept you so long?" his friends demanded.

"Well, you don't suppose a man can eat $25,000 worth of liver in a minute, do you?" was the retort of Hank.

The Tempter Won.

When the late Baron Nordenskjold was at Ceylon on the way home from his journey along the northern coast of Siberia, he received a telegram from the Russian government asking him whether he would accept from the czar a certain decoration as an appreciation of his services to Russia. For many days the famous explorer wavered, as he was a member of Bjornstjerne Bjornson's Antidecoration club, whose members were solemnly pledged never to accept any decoration from anybody. Nordenskjold, however, could not resist the temptation, so he replied to the telegram in the affirmative.

It is not hard to imagine his disappointment when, upon reaching home, a friend of his, a high official, told him the following: "The Russian government was well aware of your antagonistic views in regard to decorations and had, therefore, placed in readiness 300,000 rubles to be paid you in the event of your refusing to accept the insignia, but before paying that sum they wanted to try your firmness. Russia is certainly grateful to you for your failure to live up to your pledge."

The Lamps of the Sea.

Many kinds of jellyfish are phosphorescent at night and present a wonderfully beautiful appearance when slowly moving through the water, and it is this phosphorescence which has given them the poetic title of "the lamps of the sea." They are not less beautiful in the daytime, for most of the species are striped or tinted, some being melon shaped, with rows of fringes dividing the sections. The tentacles are often plumbed, and, while waving about in graceful curves, attract or gather in the food of the animal. The "Portuguese man-of-war" is probably the best known, as well as most attractive in form, of the whole family.

His Gift.

Mrs. Wyles—Did your husband give you anything for a birthday present?

Mrs. Styles—Indeed he did.

"Did he give you a name on it?"

"Yes, and my husband's name too."

"That's just like selfish men. He must share the gift with you."

"But he didn't."

"What was his name doing on it then?"

"It wouldn't have been any good without it. It was a check."

What's In a Name?

Voltaire under a fictitious name offered to the Comedie Francaise a play entitled "Le Droit du Seigneur."

It was promptly rejected as badly written and poor in rhyme, but when he offered the same manuscript a second time under the title of "L'Eveillé du Sage" and signed with his own name it was accepted with enthusiasm and universally declared admirable.

A Neighbor's Grief.

Mr. Stutson—They tell me Neighbor Harris' cat is dead.

Mrs. Stutson—Oh, I'm so sorry! It used to take up Fido's time so pleasantly barking at her.—Boston Transcript.

The faults of the superior man are like the eclipses of the sun and moon. He has his faults, and all men see them; he changes again, and all men look up to him.—Confucius.

Strange Facts About Animals.

Have you ever noticed that all animals which chew the cud are cloven footed? Also that most of those which drink water by suction are herbivorous, the carnivorous variety lapping it with the tongue, like the cat, dog, tiger, etc.

Sheep have no teeth in the upper jaw, and tortoises and turtles are without altogether.

Unlike most animals, horses have no eyebrows, and horses are minus eyelids. Consequently the eyes of the latter cannot be shut, and a thin membranous substance covers them when asleep. The eye of the owl is also very peculiar, seeing that it is immovably fixed in its socket and cannot stir in any direction. To compensate for this seeming disadvantage it can turn its head almost completely round without moving its body. If you were to keep a frog's mouth open many minutes, it would soon die, as owing to its peculiar construction it can only breathe with the mouth closed.

On the other hand, fishes are compelled to keep opening and closing their mouths in order to give their respiratory organs full play. It is also a strange fact that the deer has additional breathing places besides the nostrils, as if nature had foreseen his great need of free respiration when forced to flee before the hounds. Snakes usually have their teeth in the head, but one variety in Africa, whose principal food is eggs, is provided with a substitute for them in its stomach.

Did He Understand?

A well known Edinburgh professor often became so interested in his subject that when the noon bell rang he seemed quite oblivious of the fact and kept the class for several minutes. Certain restless spirits among the students decided to give him a gentle hint, so they bought an alarm clock.

London Tit-Bits tells the result.

The clock, set to alarm at precisely 12 o'clock, was placed on the professor's desk. As was anticipated, he began his lecture without observing the clock. But when the noon hour struck the alarm went off with a startling crash.

Even those not in the secret appreciated the joke. There was a round of applause. The professor smilingly waited until the alarm and the applause ceased and then said:

"Young gentlemen, I thank you for this gift. I had forgotten it was my birthday. An alarm clock is something my wife has needed for our servant for a long time. It is a very kind remembrance on your part." Then he went on with the demonstration which had been interrupted by the alarm, and the students were never quite able to satisfy themselves whether the professor understood the joke or not.

One Boy's Loyalty.

A New York boy was at school in Canada, and it was his first day in class. The geography lesson was called, and it was his turn to answer.

"Which is the largest city in the world?" asked the teacher.

"New York," unhesitatingly came the answer.

"I mean the largest city in the world," said the teacher.

As promptly came the reply, "New York."

"But," expostulated the teacher, "I did not say the largest city in the United States, but the largest city in the world. You surely know which is the largest city in the world."

"New York," persisted the boy.

"London has a larger population than New York," said the teacher. "If I do not have the correct answer this time, I shall have to punish you. Come now," coaxingly, "tell me the name of the largest city in the world."

"New York."

"Stay in during recess and write me fifty lines."

He wrote the fifty lines, and every line read: "The biggest city in the world is New York."—New York Tribune.

Praying and Prinkling.

Sam Jones, the revivalist, was once taking women to task for spending more time in prinkling than in praying.

"If there's a woman here," he screamed finally, "who prays more than she prinks, let her stand up."

One poor old faded specimen of femininity in the surliest, shabbiest of clothes arose.

"You spend more time praying than prinking?" asked the preacher, taking her all in.

The poor old creature said she did—prayed all the time, prinked none at all.

"You go straight home," admonished Jones, "and put a little time on your prinking."

Turner's Toast.

Turner, the painter, was a ready wit. Once at a dinner of artists and literary men a minor poet, by way of being facetious, proposed as a toast "the health of the painters and glaziers of Great Britain."

The toast was drunk, and Turner, after returning thanks for it, proposed "the health of the British paper stainers."

The laugh was turned against the poet.

Cognizant.

A Marysville schoolm'am was teaching her class the mysteries of grammar.

"Now, Johnny," said she, "in what tense do I speak when I say, 'I am beautiful?'"

The little fellow answered quick as a wink, "The past."—Kansas City Journal.

The Other Way.
